Episcopal Church Votes To Admit Women Priests

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Episcopal Church, modifying a centuries-old tradition, has voted to sanction women priests. But there are strong indications that many dioceses won't accept them. Some Roman Catholic leaders said they hoped the decision might help bring about the acceptance of women priests in their church.

The sharp division in the three-million-member denomination about women priests was pointed up by the narrow margin of just over 50 per cent by which the change was accepted in bloc votes both by lay and clergy delegations. The church moves "forward with a divided mind," commented the Rev. George F. Regas of Pasadena, Calif., stressing the need to "heal our wounds." A "divided church," the Rev. Gordon R. Plowe of Mitchell, S.D., called the results.

The Rev. Homer Rogers of Dallas saw possible challenges to bishops in civil court if they refuse to ordain women. He had urged provisions that, he said, would guard against such pressures. However, representatives of the church's governing convention Thursday turned down the added clause, which several maintained was superfluous and unnecessary.

"Our understanding is that no one can make a bishop ordain anyone he doesn't want to," observed the Very Rev. David Collins of Atlanta, head of a convention Committee on the Ministry. About 40 per cent of the bishops of the church's 114 dioceses opposed adoption of that new policy, and 37 of them joined in an explicit statement of conscience that they would not accept it, but would stay in the church. About 80 clergymen and laymen signed a similar statement of dissent after it was read in the convention by the Rev. Kenneth E. Trueman of Wauwatosa, Wis.

In authorizing women priests, delegates rejected an amendment proposed by William G. Ikard of El Paso, Tex., that sought to specify the change would not affect "the final authority" of diocesan bishops and their advisory committees on the matter. Their right of discretion about ordinations already is clear in church law, insisted Sterling Newell Jr. of Cleveland. He said the extra measure would have added nothing.

However, David R. West of White Bear Lake, Minn., contended that bishops "do not have the right to discriminate on the basis of sex." The church's new national policy accepting women priests sharpened that legal question. The denomination, one of 22 independent national branches of the worldwide Anglican Communion of 47 million members, traces its priestly line back to the time of Jesus' apostles, as do Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy.

As for the impact on other churches in that tradition, Sister Kathleen Keating of Springfield, Mass., president of a Roman Catholic organization of nuns, the National Assembly of Women Religious, said it would aid efforts toward accepting women priests in her church. Another Roman Catholic observer, the Rev. Charles Angell of the Graymoor Ecumenical Institute in Garrison, N.Y., said the Episcopal church's action "may very well" influence his church. "It's coming up for us and for all churches," he said.

Three other Anglican denominations in Ireland, New Zealand and Canada, have authorized women priests, with the Canadian church scheduled to begin ordaining women in November. The Archbishop of Canterbury, F. Donald Coggan, spiritual leader of the worldwide Anglican Communion, here to address both houses of the U.S. church's convention, has supported the idea of women priests.

In the U.S. church, there are about 200 women deacons, the first

AIR CRASH KILLS 6 FROM COLDWATER

Twin-Engine Plane Cracks Up In Branch County Cornfield

COLDWATER, Mich. (AP) — Six Coldwater residents died Thursday night when their light airplane crashed in a rural Branch County area.

The dead were identified as Clifford Hadley, 53, the owner and pilot; and passengers Robert Owen Smith, 54, his two sons, Douglas, 28, and Dean, 18; James Edward Nowak, 43, and James Troyer, 22, all of Coldwater.

According to reports, the bodies were badly mangled in the crash and parts of bodies and wreckage were scattered over the cornfield where the plane crashed.

State police at the Tekonsha Post received a call shortly after 9 p.m. from Judy Beemer, who lives in Butler Township near where the accident occurred. She said she had heard the sound of the crash.

Officers dispatched to the scene first discovered one of the bodies, and then found the wreckage of the twin engine Beechcraft and the other victims nearby. All were dead at the scene.

The plane was enroute from Mankato, Minn. to the small Coldwater airfield after a day-long business trip, police said.

Officers said they do not know what caused the crash. The plane was flying on instruments, officers said.

Weather conditions at the time of the crash were light ground fog and some drizzle in the air, according to troopers.

Federal Aviation Administration officials from Chicago and a coordinator from Grand Rapids were due at the crash scene today.

Betty Kicks Off Michigan Drive

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Betty Ford kicked off her husband's homestate presidential campaign at a Republican telephone center Thursday by kicking up her heels and declaring to a cheering, partisan crowd, "Let's boogie!"

Mrs. Ford, a former dancer, gave a little kick and snapped her fingers over her head as she coined the impromptu campaign slogan. She told a crowd of 200 to 300 it is important to "sweep" Michigan for President Ford, a Grand Rapids native.

"Let's do it! Let's boogie!" she said, snapping her fingers.

A Dixieland band and a Dansville high school band blared pep tunes as Mrs. Ford talked to the crowd of campaign workers cheering in the street in front of the telephone bank center.

Moments later, she entered the center, picked up a telephone and startled three Lansing housewives with a personal call. She urged each woman to vote for her husband, Congressman Marvin Esh, the GOP contender for U.S. Senate; and Cliff Taylor, the Republican Congressional candidate from the Lansing area.

Mrs. Ford picked the names at random from computer lists compiled by representatives of the GOP state central committee.

Her call caught Lisbeth Dick in the kitchen, preparing a peanut butter-and-honey sandwich for her husband, an Oldsmobile engineer.

"I was amazed and flattered," said Mrs. Dick. "I always dreamed about being Miss America or the First Lady, and my husband and I joked about it. But I never expected to speak to a First Lady herself. She made my day."

Mrs. Dick said she and her husband decided to vote for President Ford after watching the national conventions.

Mrs. Ford spent the night at the campus home of Michigan State University President Clifton Wharton and his wife, Dolores. Wharton was out of town. The two women ate an 8 a.m. breakfast as the 196-piece MSU marching band practiced as usual on a field next door.

After breakfast, she and Mrs. Wharton left the house, walked

SCHOOL BOOKCASE FELL ON HER Injured Hartford Student Dies

HARTFORD — A 10-year-old Hartford girl died late yesterday morning in Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo, from head injuries suffered when a bookcase fell on her in the Red Arrow public grade school Tuesday.

A hospital spokesman said

Tracey Heater of Rush Lake road, Hartford, died at 11:45 a.m. while being treated in the intensive care unit. She had been in a coma since the accident.

Tracey, a fifth grade student in the Red Arrow school, was injured Tuesday morning shortly before 11 a.m.

The bookcase was located in a large, open room which contained several classes.

Tracey's father, David Heater, suspects the bookcase fell on his daughter because it could not stand the weight of the books shelved in it.

"My own deduction is the bookcase was not a safe, strong unit. The fact it collapsed tells us that," Heater told The Herald-Palladium in a telephone interview from the intensive care unit waiting room Thursday morning. Heater and his wife have been keeping a vigil in the hospital since Tracey was transported to the intensive care unit from Watervliet Community hospital Tuesday.

"I highly suspect the weight of the books on a particular shelf was highly excessive making the shelf sag in the middle," Heater explained. "The only way for it to sag is because the sides pull in."

Heater said a teacher in the Red Arrow school related the circumstances of the accident to him during a visit to the hospital by members of the Hartford school board Wednesday night.

Hartford Board Issues Statement

HARTFORD — Hartford school officials this morning released a terse statement regarding the accident at the Red Arrow grade school here in which Tracey Heater, 10, was injured fatally.

The statement was the first official comment by either school administrators or the school board since the accident occurred Tuesday. Supt. Gary Waterkamp had said the schools' attorney had told them to make no comment.

The statement said: "On Tuesday, Sept. 14, 1976, Tracey Heater, a student at Red Arrow elementary school, was in an accident involving a falling book case which caused her serious bodily injury and eventual death.

The board of education and school staff are deeply hurt by this tragedy and recognize the shock and loss to the family due to this happening.

The cause of the accident is presently under intensive investigation.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

A Skittish Way Of Making A Buck

The transport of contraband merchandise from one country to another is one of the oldest illegal activities known to man.

It began way back when some potentate decided a duty on imported goods could be a handy way to replenish an ever skimpy treasury and some hardy soul took up the career of buying cheap in the country of manufacture and selling at a discount in the nation of sale.

He had to be hardy because the punishment for smuggling in those days before criminal activity became a sociological experiment in rehabilitation ranged from severing a hand to full decapitation.

The other prime motive for imposing a tariff was to protect the local economy from foreign competition.

Smuggling has persisted through the ages for two reasons.

One is pure economics. If a locally produced article sells for $5 and the contraband artist can deliver it for $4, the market will behave just like water in seeking its own level.

The other is the absence of a social stigma attached to what the law books put down for a crime. Law enforcement only makes headway against those crimes which the vast bulk of the public deems as unpardonable conduct. The thrill in slipping something past a customs inspector does not come under the heading of irredeemable misconduct.

The two most effective deterrents to smuggling are the nature of their introduction into the receiving country and the condition of the article itself.

An American automobile manufacturer is not going to risk the penalty of sneaking Michelin tires into his plant to be fitted on to his product.

The easier it is to handle an article from the standpoint of size and perishability the more likely its chance of being smuggled.

Diamonds are perfection for that purpose.

So, it seems are cigarettes. If not of 24 karat quality, then close to it.

At least the state tax collectors in New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Pennsylvania so rate them.

These are the highest tax areas in the country where tobacco is concerned.

New York City is the peak of the mountain range.

Uncle Sam collects 80 cents a carton of ten packs at the factory, principally in Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia for which the wholesaler up north will pay around $2.65.

Then it is up to him to tack on $1.50 for the New York state tax and 80 cents for the City of New York.

His margin of roughly 15 cents a carton then moves along to the retailer who has to pass up another 30 cents a carton in sales tax to the state house at Albany.

If the retailer is to make anything at all, it means a pack of cigarettes in New York City goes for a minimum 60 cents, with a discount on the full carton price for something less than $6.

Little wonder the authorities estimate that one of four cigarettes enter New York City by other than normal channels.

The reason is that a bootlegger can stock up in North Carolina for as low as $2.89 a carton retail and turn a handsome profit by selling it in Gotham at $4.

Some progress is being made, but it is slow and erratic.

Stiffer fines are now being assessed against the bootlegger and some have been sent to jail where the prosecution has been able to show the defendant is part of an organized smuggling ring.

Apprehension on the highways prior to delivery is more frequent than it used to be.

Another wrinkle is taken from the IRS procedure of rewarding an informer on income tax evasion. New York state pays the stool pigeon 20 cents a carton.

One way to end the smuggling would be to lower the high state taxes, but with so many local political tills hanging at the poverty level this remedy would be one of final resort.

A few years ago the high tax states tried to lobby a bill through Congress outlawing the sale of cigarettes in the producing states that are obviously beyond normal retail or wholesale levels.

This one died in committee and opposition to it is so entrenched as to make its revival speculative.

Wholesalers in our area feel the Michigan tax has not risen yet to the point of attracting the organized smuggling.

There is considerable personalized bootlegging along the Indiana state line. Indiana taxes cigarettes at 60 cents a carton. The Michigan rate is $1.10.

The spread is sufficiently attractive for the ordinary shopper to stock up when visiting south from New Buffalo, Buchanan, Niles and other cities on the border; but not great enough to make the investment in trucks and drivers for wholesale smuggling attractive.

the months ahead, there is concern the American people will lose sight of the purpose for which their nation was founded, and of its ultimate place in the sun.

What is the foundation upon which America stands today, and on which it has grown to its present greatness? It is not its broad domain which stretches from ocean to ocean. It is not its great cities, its friendly villages, its millions of fertile acres which feed her people, with a surplus for hungry millions abroad.

America's great cultural and scientific institutions are by-products of a civilization not duplicated elsewhere in the world because nowhere is freedom so general.

America is more than the composite of all this. It is an ideal. A state yet to be fully attained in which government rules without command or oppression. Where men and women may stand upon their own two feet, subservient to no one.

This is the purpose for which America was created. It is a purpose which must not be obscured by those who seek only temporary advantage at the price of the greater good. Maintaining a watch on the overall objectives of a free society, and constantly striving toward them, is a strategy guaranteed to produce short-term rewards as well as long-term successes.

Reader Says He's Seen Uncovered Trash Trucks

Editor,

I have a question, and I want an answer, and I believe you could give me that answer.

I live on North Crystal, next door to the sanitary landfill. Well, sir, I've seen city and private trucks go down our road without coverings on top of their loads, and I see no reason for the garbage going all over the road when there is a sign at the beginning of the road reading "All Loads Must Be Covered." I've seen several private trucks stopped for not having their loads covered and get tickets, but I have yet to see a city or county truck get stopped for that reason, even though he doesn't have his load covered.

How can anyone expect private citizens to obey the law, when people representing the government don't bother?

'Last In, First Out' Plan Rapped By Psychiatrist

Editor,

The proposed "last in, first out" policy of the St. Joseph school system does have a price tag emotionally to the child and potentially to the neighborhood. The last in child under the policy would be the child most recently moved into a given school's catchment area. The child already has one major stress to adjust to, i.e. a new neighborhood. On top of this stress this school policy adds another stress by doubly ostracizing that child. The policy markedly impairs the new child's ability to build peer relationships in his neighborhood by denying his participation in the major social experience for the children in that neighborhood, i.e. school, yet the child is again frustrated

While the above stresses alone will not expectantly produce major psychiatric symptoms, they do increase the child's vulnerability to a mental disturbance. The more likely effect of the above stresses in the child are symptoms of chronic depression, i.e. withdrawal, dropping of grades and/or "turning off on school." The child, since he has not been really accepted into the neighborhood, may vent these frustrations in the neighborhood by acts of vandalism, hence the neighborhood pays the price.

In fact, much of the delinquency in neighborhoods is related to the lack of neighborhoodness in those same neighborhoods. When neighbors do not know each other and are not concerned about the well-being of their neighbors, delinquency and crime tend to spiral. Schools do affect the neighborhoods in their catchment areas and it seems self-defeating to support a policy that tends to decrease the neighborhoodness of a neighborhood.

A school system that has the capability of resolving the immense logistical problems of busing so many students must also have the capability of keeping neighborhood children together in making school assignments. Such a policy would not only lessen the emotional stresses on the new child, but may also reap some benefit in lessening social disorder in those same neighborhoods.

WASHINGTON — (NFA) — The following is a speech you will not hear from any of the presidential candidates this season. Too bad.

"Good evening, ladies and gentlemen.

"I know you will be happy to learn that I am not going to talk at length. Nor am I going to flatter my record, attack my opponent, or include in my remarks an outrageous gimmick to assure myself headlines in tomorrow's newspapers. Reader Says He's Seen Uncovered Trash Trucks an answer, and I believe you could give me that answer.

Editor,

I live on North Crystal, next door to the sanitary landfill.
Well, sir, I've seen city and private trucks go down our road without coverings on top of their loads, and I see no reason for the garbage going all over the road when there is a sign at the beginning of the road reading "All Loads Must Be Covered." I've seen several private trucks stopped for not having their loads covered and get tickets, but I have yet to see a city or county truck get stopped for that reason, even though he doesn't have his load covered.

How can anyone expect private citizens to obey the law, when people representing the

'Last In, First Out' Plan Rapped By Psychiatrist

Editor,

The proposed "last in, first out" policy of the St. Joseph school system does have a price tag emotionally to the child and potentially to the neighborhood. The last in child under the policy would be the child most recently moved into a given school's catchment area. The child already has one major stress to adjust to, i.e. a new neighborhood. On top of this stress this school policy adds another stress by doubly ostracizing that child. The policy markedly impairs the new child's ability to build peer relationships in his neighborhood by denying his participation in the major social experience for the children in that neighborhood, i.e. school, yet the child is again frustrated in building peer relations with the students in the school he does attend, as he is limited to

If the congressional partisan

Berrien Seeks $5 Million Grant For Jail

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The Berrien county board of commissioners yesterday voted to submit a $5 million grant application to the federal government for construction of an addition to the county jail. Commissioner Otto Grau said it is not yet known how much money the county might be eligible for, although he predicted about $5 million would be needed for the addition.

The county has been told to bring the jail up to state standards, since the 24-year-old facility now has a daily average of 247 inmates compared to its capacity figure of about 200 inmates. Plans have already been presented calling for $6.6 million in renovations to bring the jail up to standards, but Grau previously said that figure will have to be cut.

The board voted to submit the application for funds to the federal government through the Local Public Works Capital Development and Investment program, which makes funds available for projects such as jail remodeling. Grau noted Congress has not yet approved the bill for funding the projects so it is unknown how much will be available. The county board has already allocated $377,101 from revenue sharing to the jail for renovation, and Grau previously said the county hoped to put about $4 million in revenue sharing towards the addition.

But he noted if the county gets a large chunk of federal money for the project, it would take much of the stress off funding the remodeling with revenue sharing funds.

In another matter, the board registered a protest to a new state law in which Medicaid payments to hospitals will be cut in an attempt to hold down the cost of Medicaid. The new law essentially says Medicaid won't pay any hospitalization that lasts longer than 75 per cent of the state average for the particular type of case.

The board's resolution notes hospitals which serve numerous Medicaid patients, such as the county's Berrien General and Benton Harbor Mercy hospitals, will be hurt the worst by the new law, and asks the state legislature to repeal the law. "I think it's criminal," Commissioner Edward Mattix flatly stated of the new law, pointing out he did not feel hospitals are keeping Medicaid patients longer than necessary.

The board yesterday also heard a report from A. Barry McGuire, executive director of the Michigan Association of Counties, a lobbying organization. McGuire urged the board to remain as autonomous as possible to avoid federal and state takeovers, noting: "Rules, regulations, and decisions by state bureaucrats cause more problems to counties than anything else."

McGuire addressed a number of topics, from taxes to revenue sharing and how each affects counties, and likened county government to the infantry, noting "we're down in the trenches."

In other business Thursday, the board:

—Adopted an "affirmative action policy" dealing with equal employment opportunity to comply with federal regulations for getting federal funds. The policy outlines policies and procedures for equal employment opportunities.

—Accepted a gift of equipment which originally cost $30,000 from the Office of Criminal Justice Institute for use in a computer program at the sheriff's department.

—Endorsed a proposal on the November ballot which would require a minimum deposit for all beverage containers.

—Approved payment of $3,000 to Coloma for a recently-completed park as part of the county parks and recreation commission's revenue sharing program.

—Re-appointed Allen Baker, Jr., Doyle Barkmeier, and John E. Steele to three-year terms on the Berrien county building authority.

BCA May Receive Backing Of County

The Berrien county board of commissioners Thursday went on record as intending to designate Berrien County Action (BCA) as the county's official anti-poverty agency. The final designation cannot come until after a public hearing, which the board has scheduled for Sept. 30, which is also the date that federal funding of BCA expires.

"We've been struggling to recognize an anti-poverty agency in this county," Commissioner Nancy Clark noted. "I wish I could say we had a viable agency (in BCA) but we really don't."

She added, however, she believed BCA "could become viable." Mrs. Clark also said that if the board did not designate an anti-poverty agency, the federal government could name its own.

"I'd love to vote no," she said of the resolution citing the intent to designate, "but if we do the designation we at least have some say in the operation."

The board in July denied a motion which would have given the designation to BCA but also voted to look into organizations which could receive the county's backing, including BCA. The July action came in the wake of the dismissal of Helen Ford of Benton Harbor as executive director by the group's board of directors.

County Coordinator Roger Petrie told The Herald-Palladium that BCA could continue to receive federal funds if BCA gets the needed designation on the Sept. 30 deadline.

Although BCA does not have the county's "designation," it had the county's "recognition," and Mrs. Clark previously predicted that with the designation BCA could receive triple the funding it has been getting. She said she was unable to tell what the dollar-figure would be, however.

The Sept. 30 public hearing will be held at 11 a.m. in the board of commissioners room in the St. Joseph courthouse.

BH MAYOR JOEL PATTERSON
Pushes block clubs

'Block Clubs' May Be The Only Salvation'

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Benton Harbor Mayor Joel Patterson said yesterday he supports the concept of neighborhood block clubs to solve the city's problems. "Benton Harbor is basically a city of strangers," he told the St. Joseph Lions club yesterday. "Block clubs may be the only salvation for our city. We have to get people working together instead of having people rely on the government to do everything for them."

Several neighborhoods in the city have organized into block clubs as part of the city's crime prevention program, but Patterson said the block club program should be expanded to take in other purposes. He said block clubs should get neighbors together to do "down-to-earth, simple things" like paint houses, erect fences, take care of their lawns and pick up trash in the neighborhood.

"People shouldn't be afraid to say what is undesirable in their city and make an alliance to attack it," Patterson said. On the present city government, Patterson said "I think we're working together beautifully now. I have no qualms about working with anyone as long as we're working towards the same goal."

Patterson was elected mayor in the Aug. 3 election which filled the seats of former Mayor Charles Joseph and three city commissioners who were recalled from office.

County Puts Teeth In BH Dog Fines

Claiming many dog owners in Benton Harbor "absolutely flout the law," the Berrien county board of commissioners yesterday vowed to clamp down on people who let their dogs run loose.

Commissioner Otto Grau said many of the owners of dogs which are running loose are on ADC or some other form of welfare, and the state supreme court has ruled that welfare money cannot be used to pay fines.

"So many (people) are on ADC or welfare that we can't enforce the law," Grau complained. "They absolutely flout the law."

But Grau said a new tack, made possible through the cooperation of the county's social services department, should put some teeth in the dog laws.

He noted there has been a reluctance to put offenders in jail because the children of the household would often be left without an adult in the house. But Grau said the social services department has agreed to place children in foster homes while a parent is in jail, so the county can begin enforcing the laws.

"We have a very, very difficult situation in Benton Harbor, and we are going to do something about it," Grau promised.

"We can no longer let these people get by with what they're doing," Grau charged. "I promised Mel Farmer (acting city manager) we would take care of the problem, and, gentlemen, we're going to solve the problem."

Grau cited statistics from last year, which showed the animal control department received 2,317 dog-related complaints from Benton Harbor. He said 1,331 dogs were picked up in the city with 1,082 being destroyed at the animal shelter. Also, he said 277 summons were issued in the city and that only 392 dog licenses were sold in Benton Harbor in 1975.

He said the normal fine for letting an unlicensed dog run loose is between $10 and $20, and indicated offenders under the new program will either have to pay the fine or go to jail.

Liberty Days Panel Slates Final Meeting

Final meeting for the Lakeshore area's Liberty Days celebration committee will be held Wednesday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln township public library. All persons who were involved in the activities in July are asked to attend. All written committee reports and Liberty Days materials will be due at this meeting. A general discussion and summary of the festival will be held. There will be no election of officers as the committee is disbanding due to lack of workers for the project. Any organization or group interested in directing the festival next year are invited to attend and ask questions at this time.

Griffin Is Honored By Small Business

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In a recent ceremony on Capitol Hill, Senator Robert P. Griffin (R.) of Michigan received the "Guardian of Small Business" award presented by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB).

Senator Griffin qualified for the NFIB "Guardian" award by voting on the side of small business 81 per cent of the time during the 94th Congress.

NFIB president Wilson S. Johnson, in conferring the award on Senator Griffin noted, "We initiated our NFIB evaluation system to give special recognition to those legislators who support small business and who have the courage to stand up and vote against the pressures of big labor and big business: the small businessman's greatest competitors for the ear of Congress."

Johnson continued, "NFIB polls its 464,000 member firms nationwide every six weeks to determine the membership's opinions on specific issues and establish the organization's legislative position. NFIB regards a 70 per cent or higher rating on key small business issues as worthy of the 'Guardian' award."

"Too many Senators go back home claiming to support small business simply because they voted for a Small Business Administration appropriations bill. We feel our membership deserves to know how their Senators voted on each of the issues which are of direct importance to small business."

"I hope our 18,500 NFIB members in Michigan will take note of Senator Griffin's voting record and realize they have someone in Washington who is aware of the problems facing small business and who is trying to make sure that the small and independent businessman receives fair representation in Congress," Johnson concluded.

ANDREW NOVIKOFF
Retiring October 1

Andy Novikoff 'Roast' Is Set For Sept. 25

Andrew Novikoff, chief investigator for the Berrien prosecutor's office the past 14 years, will be "roasted" at a retirement party slated Saturday, Sept. 25, at St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

Novikoff reaches the Berrien county mandatory employee retirement age of 65 this month and retires Oct. 1, according to Randy Arnt, special investigator for the prosecutor's office and co-chairman of the party. Det. Lt. Thomas Cooper of St. Joseph police also is co-chairman.

The party starts with refreshments at 6:30 p.m. A steak dinner begins at 8, and the "roast" by judges, the present and past prosecutors and others will follow, Arnt said.

The party is open to the public and especially law enforcement personnel from across southwestern Michigan, Arnt said. Party reservations may be made with Mrs. Joan Gwin of 2706 Trail lane, St. Joseph, telephone 429-0118. Cost is $10 per person, $17.50 per couple.

Spa Worker Faces Soliciting Charge

A 22-year-old Kalamazoo woman was arrested at the recently opened Plaza Spa last night on a charge of soliciting for an immoral act.

The arrest at the Benton township business came at about 11 p.m. after a Berrien sheriff's metro crime officer was reportedly solicited to take part in an immoral act by a woman giving him a massage.

The arrested woman was identified by police as an employee of the spa, Jacqueline Sue Lewis, 22, of Kalamazoo. She was released on a $100 bond after being booked at county jail on the misdemeanor charge.

The spa is located at 1027 East Napier avenue. Police said it is not part of the Fairplain plaza. A metro unit spokesman said Benton township police had asked for assistance after receiving several reports regarding the spa.

Two metro officers went to the firm, in plainclothes and separately. One of the officers had been at the business for about 15 minutes, and was getting a massage from a woman clothed in a sarong-tube dress, when he was allegedly propositioned, according to township and metro police officers.

Metro officers said the investigation is continuing.

Judicial Candidates To Appear

The two candidates seeking election in November to the recently created fourth Berrien county circuit court judgeship will meet in a question-and-answer session being sponsored by the Southwestern Michigan Board of Realtors, Inc.

The Thursday, Sept. 23, meeting between Probate Court Judge Zoe Burkholz and District Court Judge Ronald Taylor will be held at the Quin-Mar restaurant at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, M-130.

The cocktail hour, dinner and subsequent questions to the two candidates is open to members of the board of realtors and their guests only, according to Ray Mitchell, chairman of the political action committee of the realtors' group.

The fourth circuit court judgeship was created earlier this year by the state legislature.

LMC Gets Bicentennial Certificate

Lake Michigan college has been awarded a certificate of recognition by the State Board of Education for contributing to the commemoration of the American Bicentennial.

LMC's Bicentennial events began Feb. 1 and continued through March 21 with organized events on a daily basis during the week of March 17. Dr. Charlie K. Field, LMC dean of Continuing Education and Community Services who served as chairman of the LMC Bicentennial committee, received the certificate and letter of commendation from John W. Porter, state superintendent of public instruction.

Those in attendance at last nights meeting who raised the objections own homes on or near St. Joseph avenue, just south of the village's business district, in a commercially zoned area.

The proposed ordinance holds that any non-conforming structure damaged by fire, wind or an act of God, cannot be rebuilt or restored if the cost exceeds one half the value of the structure, unless approved by the zoning board of appeals.

It continues that approval shall be granted only if the rebuilding or restoration does not substantially extend the probable duration of such non-conforming use or if circumstances are such that the land previously occupied by such non-conforming use cannot then be advantageously used for a use permitted in the zone.

Residents claimed the section is unfair in that, should any extensive damage be done to their homes, they would have no choice but to relocate.

Robert Sturch, 5750 St. Joseph avenue, village assessor who was one of the objectors stated his home is in an ideal location for a retired person, being within walking distance of stores, a doctor and a dentist.

He said he hoped to spend the rest of his life there but would not be able to under the measure, if the house was extensively damaged in the meantime.

President Arthur Kasewurm stated the council would have the authority to permit such rebuilding but Trustee Charles "Bud" Kerlikowski argued the council would have to abide by the ordinance, if adopted, regardless of the members' feelings for the person involved.

Trustee B. W. Yaslick stated a member of the Berrien county planning commission, who helped prepare the proposed ordinance, told the council it could permit such rebuilding, but no council member could remember him stating how it could be done.

Kerlikowski called for the section in question to be removed from the proposed ordinance, but later agreed to wait until the public hearing.

The residents stated they would be present at the hearing at which time they would again voice their opposition.

In other business council referred to the police committee for further study village police officers patrolling I-94 within the village boundaries. Police Chief Martin Watson reported the officers had been doing it at the request of county and state police officials.

BH Youth Wins LMC Scholarship

Douglas W. Fisher of Benton Harbor has been announced as winner of a $100 scholarship to Lake Michigan college. He was chosen from some 300 persons who registered at the LMC booth at the Berrien County Youth fair in August.

Fisher is a Benton Harbor high school graduate and lives at 1120 Azard street.

Berrien Seeks $5 Million Grant For Jail

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

en county board of commissioners yesterday voted to million grant application to the federal government for an addition to the county jail. Commissioner Otto is not yet known how much money the county might be, although he predicted about $5 million would be the addition.

ly has been told to bring the jail up to state standards, 4-year-old facility now has a daily average of 247 inmates to its capacity figure of about 200 inmates. Plans have been presented calling for $6.6 million in renovations to bring the jail up to standards, but Grau previously said that the plan would be cut.

d voted to submit the application for funds to the federal government through the Local Public Works Capital Development and Investment program, which makes funds available for projects such as jail remodeling. Grau noted Congress has not yet approved the bill for funding the projects so it is unknown how much will be available. The county board has already allocated $377,101 from revenue sharing to the jail for renovation, and Grau previously said the county hoped to put about $4 million in revenue sharing towards the addition.

But he noted if the county gets a large chunk of federal money for the project, it would take much of the stress off funding the remodeling with revenue sharing funds.

In another matter, the board registered a protest to a new state law in which Medicaid payments to hospitals will be cut in an attempt to hold down the cost of Medicaid. The new law essentially says Medicaid won't pay any hospitalization that lasts longer than 75 per cent of the state average for the particular type of case.

The board's resolution notes hospitals which serve numerous Medicaid patients, such as the county's Berrien General and Benton Harbor Mercy hospitals, will be hurt the worst by the new law, and asks the state legislature to repeal the law. "I think it's criminal," Commissioner Edward Mattix flatly stated of the new law, pointing out he did not feel hospitals are keeping Medicaid patients longer than necessary.

The board yesterday also heard a report from A. Barry McGuire, executive director of the Michigan Association of Counties, a lobbying organization. McGuire urged the board to remain as autonomous as possible to avoid federal and state takeovers, noting: "Rules, regulations, and decisions by state bureaucrats cause more problems to counties than anything else."

McGuire addressed a number of topics, from taxes to revenue sharing and how each affects counties, and likened county government to the infantry, noting "we're down in the trenches."

In other business Thursday, the board:

—Adopted an "affirmative action policy" dealing with equal employment opportunity to comply with federal regulations for getting federal funds. The policy outlines policies and procedures for equal employment opportunities.

—Accepted a gift of equipment which originally cost $30,000 from the Office of Criminal Justice Institute for use in a computer program at the sheriff's department.

—Endorsed a proposal on the November ballot which would require a minimum deposit for all beverage containers.

—Approved payment of $3,000 to Coloma for a recently-completed park as part of the county parks and recreation commission's revenue sharing program.

—Re-appointed Allen Baker, Jr., Doyle Barkmeier, and John E. Steele to three-year terms on the Berrien county building authority.

BCA May Receive Backing Of County

en county board of commissioners Thursday went to the Berrien County Action Center to discuss the county's official anti-poverty agency.

The final designation cannot come until after a public hearing, which the board has scheduled for Sept. 30, which is also the date that federal funding of BCA expires.

"We've been struggling to recognize an anti-poverty agency in this county," Commissioner Nancy Clark noted. "I wish I could say we had a viable agency (in BCA) but we really don't."

She added, however, she believed BCA "could become viable." Mrs. Clark also said that if the board did not designate an anti-poverty agency, the federal government could name its own.

"I'd love to vote no," she said of the resolution citing the intent to designate, "but if we do the designation we at least have some say in the operation."

The board in July denied a motion which would have given the designation to BCA but also voted to look into organizations which could receive the county's backing, including BCA. The July action came in the wake of the dismissal of Helen Ford of Benton Harbor as executive director by the group's board of directors.

County Coordinator Roger Petrie told The Herald-Palladium that BCA could continue to receive federal funds if BCA gets the needed designation on the Sept. 30 deadline.

Although BCA does not have the county's "designation" it had the county's "recognition," and Mrs. Clark previously predicted that with the designation BCA could receive triple the funding it has been getting. She said she was unable to tell what the dollar-figure would be, however.

BH MAYOR JOEL PATTERSON
Pushes block clubs

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Benton Harbor Mayor Joel Patterson said yesterday he supports the concept of neighborhood block clubs to solve the city's problems. "Benton Harbor is basically a city of strangers," he told the St. Joseph Lions club yesterday. "Block clubs may be the only salvation for our city. We have to get people working together instead of having people rely on the government to do everything for them."

Several neighborhoods in the city have organized into block clubs as part of the city's crime prevention program, but Patterson said the block club program should be expanded to take in other purposes. He said block clubs should get neighbors together to do "down-to-earth, simple things" like paint houses, erect fences, take care of their lawns and pick up trash in the neighborhood.

"People shouldn't be afraid to say what is undesirable in their city and make an alliance to attack it," Patterson said. On the present city government, Patterson said "I think we're working together beautifully now. I have no qualms about working with anyone as long as we're working towards the same goal."

Patterson was elected mayor in the Aug. 3 election which filled the seats of former Mayor Charles Joseph and three city commissioners who were recalled from office.

County Puts Teeth In BH Dog Fines

Claiming many dog owners in Benton Harbor "absolutely flaunt the law," the Berrien county board of commissioners yesterday vowed to clamp down on people who let their dogs run loose.

Commissioner Otto Grau said many of the owners of dogs which are running loose are on ADC or some other form of welfare, and the state supreme court has ruled that welfare money cannot be used to pay fines.

"So many (people) are on ADC or welfare that we can't enforce the law," Grau complained. "They absolutely flaunt the law."

But Grau said a new tack, made possible through the cooperation of the county's social services department, should put some teeth in the dog laws.

He noted there has been a reluctance to put offenders in jail because the children of the household would often be left without an adult in the house. But Grau said the social services department has agreed to place children in foster homes while a parent is in jail, so the county can begin enforcing the laws.

"We have a very, very difficult situation in Benton Harbor, and we are going to do something about it," Grau promised.

Another 'Snooper' Seized By Trooper

State police of the Benton Harbor post said they seized a police radar detector from a Kalamazoo man's car Thursday, the second this week and the third in the past 17 days.

Trooper Douglas Murphy said he stopped a car about 7 p.m. on I-94 near the I-196 interchange, Benton township, after observing a unit with blinking red lights in the car. Murphy said the post had been alerted by Berrien sheriff's Lt. Tom McCall who was in an unmarked police car. Seized was a "Snooper" radar detector.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of possession of a police monitor (radar detector) in a motor vehicle was Robert J. Heidt, 20, Kalamazoo. Troopers said such devices are illegal unless licensed.

Other officers installed were Mrs. William (Pat) Schetter, vice president; Mrs. Ken (Cannie) Reimann, treasurer; Mrs. Jerry (Jan) Reimann, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Floyd (Jackie) Schneider, recording secretary.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. William (Pat) Schetter, programs; Mrs. Michael (Cannie) Yore, publicity and historian; Mrs. Don (Charlotte) Ingole, yearbook; Mrs. Charles (Jackie) Garlanger, membership; Mrs. Alfred (Tiffany) Butzbaugh, librarian; and Mrs. David (Joan) Kraklau, speaker gifts.

The Questers were founded in 1941 by Mrs. William George Barden. Headquarters are in Philadelphia, Pa. The group is non-profit, non-sectarian, non-profit national organization with unlimited membership whose purpose is to learn about antiques through study and research to encourage the collecting and increase the appreciation of them and to aid in the restoration and preservation of historical memorials and landmarks, both financially and with contributions of time, labor, materials and furnishings.

There are now chapters in the District of Columbia and Canada as well as the United States. Michigan was the first state to be organized.

Burnett's Traders chapter was formed in 1972 and took its name from this area's most prominent trader and first permanent white resident William Burnett who came to St. Joseph in 1775.

Chapter activities include speakers on antiques, collectibles and local history. The chapter also purchased a shadow box at the original Berrien County Courthouse in Berrien Springs.

The Quester motto is "It's fun to search and a joy to find."

Mrs. Johnson has also served the chapter as vice president, program chairman, secretary and yearbook chairman.

She is also a member of St.

Joseph Valley Hand Spinners, Michigan Guild of Hand Weavers and the Fibre Guild.

She collects spinning wheels, Victorian jewel boxes, dolls and buttons.

She and her husband have two children, Stephanie, 8, and Matthew, 5. Johnson is director of the Intensive Supervision program of the Michigan Department of Corrections in Benton Harbor.

The Benton Harbor-St. Joseph branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its membership luncheon Saturday, Sept. 25 at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville.

A reception will be held at noon for new and current members followed by the luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

Any woman of the area with a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university may join the association.

No invitations are necessary. Anyone interested may make reservations by contacting Mrs. Don W. Clark, Benton Harbor, or Mrs. L.F. Schweitzer, Stevensville, by Tuesday, Sept. 21.

Those attending will have an opportunity to join study-interest groups which meet in addition to the general monthly AAUW meetings.

Guest speaker for the membership luncheon will be Esther K. Shapiro, director of consumer affairs for the city of Detroit. Her topic will be

"Consumer Protection: Strait-Jacket Or Life Jacket?"

In 1974 she was appointed by Mayor Coleman A. Young to the post of director of the department, an agency created by the new city charter. The department is empowered to carry on a broad program of consumer education, information, research and the enforcement of city consumer ordinances.

Prior to the city appointment, Shapiro spent eight years as consumer specialist for the Michigan Credit Union League. She prepared consumer education programs for members and also created school programs and community workshops on consumerism. Her column for the League magazine was carried by a number of state newspapers.

Shapiro is past president of the Consumer Federation of America, and a founder and past president of the Consumer Alliance of Michigan. She was appointed by two previous Detroit mayors to consumer advisory councils and has served on advisory boards to the FDA, the Michigan Department of Agriculture and the Federal Executive board.

Shapiro broadcasts a daily consumer bulletin on Detroit radio station WWJ as well as weekly newscasts for other Detroit radio stations and local television talk shows. She has lectured at most Michigan universities and conducted seminars for teachers of consumer education.

Before entering the consumer field, Shapiro was recruitment director for the Office of School Volunteers, Detroit board of education.

Serving on the hospitality committee for the membership luncheon will be Mrs. Willis (Norma) Kountz, chairman, Mrs. Charles (Joanne) Averill, Mrs. Dennis (Lynn) Bowen, Mrs. John (Betsy) Hammond and Mrs. William (Juanita) Powe.

(Staff Photo)

Burnett's Traders

Mrs. Clark (Sharon) Johnson of Stevensville has been installed as new president of Burnett's Traders, Chapter No. 567, The Questers, Inc.

Other officers installed were Mrs. William (Pat) Schetter, vice president; Mrs. Ken (Connie) Reimann, treasurer; Mrs. Jerry (Jan) Reimann, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Floyd (Jackie) Schneider, recording secretary.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. William (Pat) Schetter, programs; Mrs. Michael (Connie) Yore, publicity and historian; Mrs. Don (Charlotte) Ingole, yearbook; Mrs. Charles (Jackie) Garlanger, membership; Mrs. Alfred (Tiffany) Butzbaugh, librarian, and Mrs. David (Joan) Kraklau, speaker gifts.

The Questers were founded in 1944 by Mrs. William George Barden. Headquarters are in Philadelphia, Pa. The group is non-profit, non-sectarian, non-profit national organization with unlimited membership whose purpose is to learn about antiques through study and research to encourage the collecting and increase the appreciation of them and to aid in the restoration and preservation of historical memorials and landmarks, both financially and with contributions of time, labor, materials and furnishings.

There are now chapters in the District of Columbia and Canada as well as the United States. Michigan was the first state to be organized.

Burnett's Traders chapter was formed in 1972 and took its name from this area's most prominent trader and first permanent white resident William Burnett who came to St. Joseph in 1775.

Chapter activities include speakers on antiques, collectibles and local history. The chapter also purchased a shadow box at the original Berrien County Courthouse in Berrien Springs.

The Quester motto is "It's fun to search and a joy to find."

Mrs. Johnson has also served the chapter as vice president, program chairman, secretary and yearbook chairman.

She is also a member of St.

Joseph Valley Hand Spinners, Michigan Guild of Hand Weavers and the Fibre Guild.

She collects spinning wheels, victorian jewel boxes, dolls and buttons.

She and her husband have two children, Stephanie, 8, and Matthew, 5. Johnson is director of the Intensive Supervision program of the Michigan Department of Corrections in Benton Harbor.

Name AAUW Speaker

The Benton Harbor-St. Joseph branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its membership luncheon Saturday, Sept. 25 at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville.

A reception will be held at noon for new and current members followed by the luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

Any woman of the area with a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university may join the association.

No invitations are necessary. Anyone interested may make reservations by contacting Mrs. Don W. Clark, Benton Harbor, or Mrs. L.F. Schweitzer, Stevensville, by Tuesday, Sept. 21.

Those attending will have an opportunity to join study-interest groups which meet in addition to the general monthly AAUW meetings.

Guest speaker for the membership luncheon will be Esther K. Shapiro, director of consumer affairs for the city of Detroit. Her topic will be

"Consumer Protection: Strait-Jacket Or Life Jacket?"

In 1974 she was appointed by Mayor Coleman A. Young to the post of director of the department, an agency created by the new city charter. The department is empowered to carry on a broad program of consumer education, information, research and the enforcement of city consumer ordinances.

Prior to the city appointment, Shapiro spent eight years as consumer specialist for the Michigan Credit Union League. She prepared consumer education programs for members and also created school programs and community workshops on consumerism. Her column for the League magazine was carried by a number of state newspapers.

Shapiro is past president of the Consumer Federation of America, and a founder and past president of the Consumer Alliance of Michigan. She was appointed by two previous Detroit mayors to consumer advisory councils and has served on advisory boards to the FDA, the Michigan Department of Agriculture and the Federal Executive board.

Shapiro broadcasts a daily consumer bulletin on Detroit radio station WWJ as well as weekly newscasts for other Detroit radio stations and local

Exchange Program Director Named

Mrs. Diana Follebout, regional director of Youth for Understanding International Teenage Exchange Program, has announced the appointment of Kenneth Pica of Benton Harbor as area representative for Berrien county.

Pica's duties will include working closely with the Region IV office, located in Saginaw, to insure that area high schools, students and parents have the complete support and cooperation of Youth for Understanding in the immediate area.

As a people to people program, Mrs. Follebout said, Youth for Understanding feels the need to more personally communicate with the schools and communities on a local level. She said the appointment of Pica, a mathematics teacher and seventh grade football coach at Benton Harbor Seventh and Eighth Grade Center since 1969, will help to insure accessibility for Berrien county students to the many Youth for Understanding resources through the state and national offices.

A Michigan network of skilled area representatives means greater contact and understanding between students, families, schools, and successful exchange experiences, Mrs. Follebout said.

Pica will make regular school visits to provide information and application forms for all of the Youth for Understanding programs. As part of the Michigan state structure Pica will be able to share experiences and provide an insight into the needs of students and parents alike, according to Mrs. Follebout.

Youth for Understanding is one of three programs in the high school exchange field which is officially recognized and receives an annual grant-in-aid from the United States Department of State. It is a tax exempt, non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of international understanding through a family living experience. Youth for Understanding has exchanged more than 50,000 students since its beginning in 1951.

High School Students Asked To Participate

Youth for Understanding is seeking Berrien county high school students interested in participating in its International Student Exchange program beginning in June, it has been announced by Kenneth Pica, Youth for Understanding representative for Berrien county.

Families in 24 countries in Europe, South America and the Far East will open their homes to over 2,000 United States students in the intercultural exchange program lasting a summer or a year, Pica said.

Deadline for applications is April 1. Further information may be obtained by contacting Pica, 6660 Empire avenue, Benton Harbor.

Philip Yasinski, international executive director of the Ann Arbor headquartered organization, in a news release received by Pica, said, "This is an excellent opportunity for high school students between the ages of 15 and 18 to experience life in another country."

"We offer students a unique way to turn their ideas and ideals inside out for examination and re-examination," he said.

"Students who have gone abroad on our program to Japan, Brazil, Switzerland, Germany and other countries have come back with new insight and attitudes. They have done a lot of growing and maturing in a few short months."

While gaining new independence and maturity, they have met new and interesting people, visited historic places and have become familiar with another language."

Youth for Understanding is a non-profit educational organization which cooperates with and receives an annual grant from the United States Department of State. Youth for Understanding is dedicated to fostering greater international understanding by making it possible for young people to have an overseas family living experience. Since its inception in 1951, the program has exchanged more than 50,000 United States and foreign students in 50 countries world wide.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

A Correction On Laughter

Dear Ann-Landers: If you should see an Associated Press story reporting that a Stanford University psychiatrist, Dr. William F. Fry Jr. (that's me), told an International Conference on Humor in Cardiff, Wales, that laughter can be injurious to your health, DON'T BELIEVE IT. I was misquoted.

Actually, I was lecturing on some evolutionary aspects of laughter that had nothing whatever to do with health.

On that same day, a writer for the London Daily Mirror reported that I said, "Laughter is quite beneficial — a fine tonic that provides excellent stimulation."

So please, Ann, inform your readers of my deeply held conviction that laughter and mirth and humor are invaluable and ought to be encouraged in every way. A sense of humor is a precious part of life and should be prized and enjoyed. — Sincere Regards, William F. Fry Jr., M.D.

Dear Dr. Fry: Thank you for setting the record straight. And who could do it better than the man himself?

How reassuring to know it really DOESN'T hurt when you laugh — especially when there aren't that many things to laugh at these days.

Call The Coroner

Dear Ann Landers: Your column is discussed frequently at our church guild meetings, PTA and my weekly bridge club. I've heard loads of people say they have written to you (some three and four times) but their letters never got into the paper.

They claim you print only the letters you have a snappy comeback for. Is this true? If mine should make the paper I would die of shock. — Des Moines Reader

Dear D.M.: Call the coroner. The women who complained are half right. Loads of people write to me (some several times) and they never see their letters in the paper. The reason: I receive over 1,000 letters a day and can print three, at the most. My problem is space.

As for printing only those letters for which I have snappy answers — not true. For example — what's so snappy about THIS answer?

Their Turn Now

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are both 84 years of age. We are thankful to the good Lord that we are in good health and able to enjoy our children. But they are the problem.

We live in a small town. The children live in the city. Every few weeks one will phone and say, "We will be coming down for supper. There will be six of us."

They don't realize this means preparing supper for eight; then I must be up at the crack of dawn to fix breakfast the following morning. Of course,

I'm expected to fix a little lunch before they leave. I have no help and the cooking and cleaning up after is exhausting. (I'm not even mentioning the cost of food these days.)

It would be wonderful if they would say, "Don't fix supper, mother. We will take you out." Instead they tell us about how they entertained this one and that one at some expensive restaurant in the city. Speak for me, will you, dear Ann? — Tired Feet

Dear Tired: I wish I could but you will have to speak for yourself — and I hope you do so the very next time you get a phone call.

Simply say, "Preparing supper is exhausting, dear. I just can't do it anymore. Would you mind treating Dad and me to a meal in a restaurant?"

I don't care how good of a shape the economists say we're in. I can always tell the way this country is moving by the old Grocery - Bag - Under - the - Sink principle.

Here's the way it works. I bring my groceries home from the store in brown paper bags. When they are emptied I store them under the sink. They are used to line the waste can and hold garbage.

On Wednesday of last week I reached under the sink for a bag. There were none. This can mean only one thing. My food supply is not keeping step with the amount of garbage. Or, there is more garbage going out than there is food coming in.

My husband says this is not possible. "Why would you have more garbage than you have food in the first place? That is not logical."

"Neither is gaining three pounds in the delivery room, but it happened."

"You're confusing me. You should have more than enough garbage bags. Maybe the carry-out boys are packing them fuller these days."

"Impossible. You saw my week's supply in the glove compartment." "Maybe you are becoming a better cook." "Do you really believe that?" "No." "I don't know how I can face the neighborhood." "What are you talking about?" he asked. "We've always been a five-garbage-can family. How do you think we're going to look when we keep coming down to four... then three... then... have you no pride? I know, maybe we could circulate a rumor we bought a disposer? Or that all of us are on diets? Or we could pile in the car every evening and pretend we're eating out."

"To the store to buy three bagsful of things I don't need. I don't know about you, but I can't live like this from day to day... not knowing where my next brown bag is coming from."

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Mike Lawrence gives the best rule we have seen for when to read your partner's signal as suit preference. Here it is:

"Never interpret partner's card as a suit preference if it can logically mean anything else."

Here is a hand to illustrate this. We won't go into the merits of the bidding except to point out that West can make seven hearts against a diamond lead, six against a spade lead and five against a club lead.

Also, when South bid six spades he had no idea as to who could make what. He didn't really care. He couldn't be set much at six spades and couldn't expect much profit defending against six hearts.

West opens his ace of hearts against the six-spade contract. If he shifts to a diamond he collects 100 points. If he leads anything else South scores game, slam and rubber.

East can and should ask for a diamond lead by dropping his king of hearts on his partner's ace.

This can't be a come-on in hearts. It must be a suit preference to ask for a diamond shift.

Ask the Jacobys

A Georgia reader wants to know what happens when a player asks for a new deck of cards to change his or her luck.

There is no rule here. It is proper and courteous to accede to the request provided the person asking for new cards is willing to pay for them.

Dr. Lester Coleman

A colleague of mine who reads these columns in his local newspaper asked me why I deliberately avoid mentioning the symptoms of a particular disease.

This same question is frequently asked me by my readers who so often are concerned about their own symptoms.

Were I to describe an illness by a listing of possible symptoms it undoubtedly would induce in many readers a sense of identification and would create unnecessary anxiety.

I asked my colleague, an excellent physician, to name a few of the symptoms most commonly brought to his attention by patients with some form of intestinal disturbance. He named:

- 1) Abdominal cramps
- 2) Nausea
- 3) A "gassy" feeling of fullness
- 4) Bouts of belching
- 5) Occasional vomiting
- 6) An "acidic" feeling or "sour" stomach
- 7) Heartburn
- 8) Constipation
- 9) Diarrhea
- 10) Flatulence and the desire to expel gas

When we reviewed these symptoms we came to the mutual conclusion that singly, or in combination, these symptoms might indicate any of the following disorders:

- 1) Simple indigestion
- 2) A hiatus hernia or other problems with the esophagus
- 3) Overindulgence in alcohol or food
- 4) Peptic ulcer of the stomach or duodenum
- 5) Gall bladder disease, with or without stones
- 6) Liver disturbances, including cirrhosis of the liver
- 7) Intestinal tumors, including cancer anywhere along the intestinal tract
- 8) Infections and growths of the pancreas
- 9) Chronic appendicitis
- 10) Diverticulitis and diverticuli

It can hardly be expected that readers can differentiate between such complex, overlapping symptoms and still go to bed with a sense of calm rather than a feeling of anxiety.

Now do you get some idea of the inadvisability of presenting symptoms to a reader? Do you have a better understanding of how astute the physician must be to evaluate symptoms and correlate them with diseases in order to establish the ideal form of treatment?

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The information that seems about to ch a congressional inquiry into the murder of Martin Luther King includes allegations involving the removal of a black emman and two firemen from their posts in Memphis shortly e King's death. The information, first made public in 1968, presented last month to King's widow and to members of Congressional Black Caucus by Academy Award winning enwriter Abby Mann and by assassination critic Mark Lane. l. Walter Fauntroy, D-D.C., confirmed that Lane and Mann e the sources of the "new" information, and a member of Black Congressional Caucus who declined to be identified owledged that this same information was instrumental in uading the House leadership to back the resolution creating w committee to investigate King's death and that of adent John F. Kennedy. e House is scheduled to take up the resolution today, and supporters claim they have enough votes for passage. Rep. Thomas N. Downing, D-Va., was quoted Wednesday as saying that it was a push by Black Caucus members because of "new information" they say they have received which persuaded the powerful Rules Committee to clear the resolution for floor action. Although this information has been in the public domain since 1968, it appeared that at least some of it had never been investigated by the FBI.

As described by Lane and Mann in separate telephone interviews Thursday, the information involves a black Memphis police sergeant named Edward E. Redditt, who was in charge of security for King on April 4, 1968.

At 4 p.m. that afternoon, Redditt was ordered by Memphis Fire and Police Director Frank C. Holloman to go home because a threat had been made against his life. Redditt returned home, where he heard the news of King's death on the radio. King was shot and killed on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel. James Earl Ray pleaded guilty to the crime and currently is serving a 99-year prison term.

The second piece of information described by Lane and Mann involves the transfer of two black firemen assigned to a fire station located directly across from the Lorraine. Lane implied that Holloman had authority over the fire department as well as the police department and therefore could have been responsible for both personnel switches.

Before taking the Memphis post, Holloman was a 25-year-veteran of the FBI, including a stint as an inspector in the office of then-FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. Hoover's personal involvement in the FBI campaign to discredit King has been documented by the Senate intelligence committee.

One of the firemen, Floyd Newsom, told Mann that he had been abruptly transferred to another station the night before King's murder after returning from a rally addressed by the civil rights leader.

Maxine Smith, executive secretary of the Memphis NAACP, said both incidents had been "general knowledge."

Step Up Battle In Seney Fire

SENEY, Mich. (AP) — With Michigan's Upper Peninsula facing another spell of hot, dry weather, state and federal firefighters are racing to try to contain the north half of a huge forest fire which continues to burn out of control.

Authorities said containment lines are now about 25 per cent complete, but progress is slow in the marshy terrain.

The goal is to complete the lines by the weekend, when warm, dry weather is expected to return to the area, said Mike Hattaway, a federal firefighting spokesman.

The seven-week-old fire, which had been thought under control last week, was split into two zones when it flared up again Sunday and raced across Michigan 26, forcing officials to close part of the major east-west U.P. route.

Officials said the northern part of the fire has burned more than 8,300 acres, while the southern section is contained on 61,000 acres.

A crew of 500 men is struggling to control the north zone, and 300 are completing mop-up operations in the south.

Firefighters said much of the work must be done by hand with picks and shovels, and the task is tedious.

Because of the possibility of another flare-up in the expected warmer weather this weekend, two specially-outfitted helicopters will arrive at the fire site today.

The fire started in late July when lightning struck an isolated wilderness area in the Seney National Wildlife Refuge, and it later spread to the Manistique River State Forest.

HOMESTEADER: William Barrington, at 102 one of Colorado's oldest living homesteaders, laughs Thursday as he recalls the time years ago when he walked across his spread and "stepped on 11 rattlesnakes before dinner." Barrington and other homesteaders were honored by the Bureau of Land Management. (AP Wirephoto)

STRONG OUTPUT
DETROIT (AP) — Despite the United Auto Workers' strike at Ford Motor Co., auto output for the week ending next Monday will be 4.81 per cent ahead of the previous week.

Southern Town Is Out Of Cash

MONROE, La. (AP) — This city of 36,400 persons has failed to meet the payroll for about 30 per cent of its employees, the first default by an American city since 1970.

Mayor W.L. Howard said the city was out of money Thursday, and described the situation as "terrible as far as city employees are concerned."

There are about 1,100 city workers, and the City Hall staff of about 450 didn't get their monthly paychecks Wednesday as they were supposed to. The city said it won't be able to pay the rest of its workers today as scheduled.

The north-central Louisiana city also has bills of about $300,000, some of them already overdue.

Officials say the city's money problems are due in large part to the rising cost of natural gas, which has cut income from a city-owned power plant that was an important source of revenue.

Default by a city means it fails to meet a payment on schedule.

Hantrameck, Mich., an independent city surrounded by Detroit, was the last city to default. It failed to pay salaries and bills in 1970.

New York City averted default on several occasions last year by finding last-minute sources of revenue to cover interest payments and payrolls. Some have maintained that a 10-year moratorium on paying off short-term debt amounted to a technical default by New York City.

Democrats Rebuke Fitzgerald

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Senate Democrats handed a sharp rebuke to Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald Thursday by agreeing to elect new Democratic Caucus leaders this December — two years, earlier than scheduled.

The action capped 21 months of stormy internal relations among the Democrats. The 34-year-old Detroit freshman has been repeatedly threatened by revolt in his own ranks, mainly because of personality clashes with other lawmakers and legislative staff members.

The decision by the 24-member caucus — which holds the majority status in the 38-member Senate — was reportedly unanimous during a 3½-hour closed-door session. But it reflected strong sentiment among many Democrats that Fitzgerald should give up his post.

The decision to hold elections Dec. 16 for the final two years of the Senate term opens the post and other positions to any candidate who wants to try and attract enough votes.

Democrats insisted there was no rule which made the majority leader's term a four-year one, and said the caucus only agreed to finally write such a rule.

But it was assumed when Fitzgerald was elected in 1973, he would hold the post for the full four-year term unless he stepped aside or ran for another office.

Fitzgerald said he would seek a second term as majority leader, and refused to comment further on the decision.

It appeared there were not enough votes to oust Fitzgerald on Thursday, as has been the case in other secret sessions held to upbraid him about his job. But the formality of new elections is expected to make it easier for others to declare their candidacy and vote against him without it looking like a palace coup.

MONROE, La. (AP) — This city since 1970.

Mayor W.L. Howard said the

Bloom'dale Twp. Votes To Buy 57 Road Signs

BLOOMINGDALE — The purchase of road signs was approved by the Bloomingdale township board last night.

The cost of the 57 fiberglass signs will be $2,683, according to Supervisor George Sage who recommended the project. The signs will be beneficial to emergency vehicles as well as to people unfamiliar with the area, he told the board.

The township presently does not have road signs.

In other action at the board's quarterly meeting, the board voted to pay $440 towards a sewer feasibility study in the Mill Lake area in Bloomingdale township just northwest of Gobles.

The study is to cost $880 and residents in the area will pay half the cost, according to William Clement, a representative of the Mill Lake association.

Mill Lake residents wanted their area surveyed at the same time an engineering firm is conducting a sewer feasibility study for Gobles.

The board also voted to blacktop a portion of 38th street on the southeast side of Eagle lake, with the Van Buren county road commission to do the work at a cost not to exceed $4,000.

The section of road has a higher elevation than some lake cottages and rains had been washing gravel down onto some of the homes, according to a request for paving submitted by several lake residents.

A donation of $300 to the Michigan Power Users association was approved by the board. The association is fighting a proposed rate hike being sought by the Michigan power company and asked for the donation for legal fees.

The board also approved a $100 donation to the Van Buren county Council on Aging; ordered two sets of aerial photos of the township at an estimated cost of $37 for each set; appointed Morris Harpham to the PineDale ambulance board; and set its next meeting for Dec. 2.

Boy Scouts Slate 1st Area Camporee

BATTLE CREEK — Southwest Michigan council, Boy Scouts of America, will hold its first council-wide camporee Oct. 8, 9, and 10.

The outing will be held at the New River Oaks county park on Morrow lake near Galesburg.

The purpose of the campout is to help celebrate America's Bicentennial. The theme is "Our United States."

Each Scouting district has been assigned states of the union. The various troops in the districts will select a particular state and prepare displays or demonstrations that are related to this state's industry, history and points of interest.

There will be exhibits and demonstrations dealing with archery, black powder firearms, and Civil War reenactments.

Over 3,000 Scouts and Scouters from six counties are expected to take part. The public is invited to view exhibits.

Congress Passes Tax Cut Bill

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is expected to sign the tax bill that continues some existing income tax cuts and makes major revisions in the nation's tax laws.

Congress approved the bill Thursday.

Multibillion-dollar general income tax cuts enacted last year to fight the recession would be continued through 1977, worth $180 to a typical family of four making $15,000 a year. Across-the-board business income tax cuts also would be extended.

Some wealthier persons would find a mixture of tax increases and decreases, including hikes of $1 billion a year under the so-called minimum tax on the rich, for example, but cuts of roughly that amount through a sweeping overhaul of gift and estate taxes.

For the first time, many housewives could qualify for tax-deferred pension plans. And a family's tax bills would be cut by as much as $800 a year for parents who must hire a babysitter so they can hold their jobs. A simpler, more generous tax-cutting credit would go to the elderly. Investors would discover their tax shelters are disappearing.

In all, during the five-year federal budget period beginning next month, tax cut extensions for individuals and businesses will cost the Treasury a total of $54.6 billion, another $4.2 billion will be lost through estate and gift tax changes, while other tax revisions are gaining $9.9 billion for the government.

By making so many changes across such wide stretches of the tax fields, this bill is considered by veteran congressional tax experts to be the most sweeping revision in roughly two decades.

For instance, it revamps a feature of capital gains income tax law that has been untouched since 1942. Likewise, the basic structure of gift and estate tax law has remained fundamentally unchanged since 1932, and exemption portions of it were last changed in 1942.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others in Congress were looking forward to more tax changes next year.

"It is a step forward, but only a small one," Kennedy said. "There is plenty left for the next Congress — and (Democratic presidential nominee) Jimmy Carter to do on tax reform, and I hope that we shall be starting on the task as early as possible next year."

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, suggested more is possible in simplifying the tax law.

"It is my hope that we can move in a quantum leap toward simplification in the next Congress. But this bill does simplify the tax returns for the average taxpayer in a very meaningful way," Ullman said, such as condensing tax tables for the basic tax form 1040.

Ullman also pointed to changes involving the standard deductions. Millions of persons "who now go through the tortuous process" of dealing with their deductions, Ullman said, would be put "into the standard deduction category where they will get a better tax break — so this is major simplification here."

The bill would make permanent the present temporary boosts in minimum and maximum standard deductions, used by those who do not itemize on their tax returns.

Congress Passes Tax Cut Bill

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is expected to sign the tax bill that continues some existing income tax cuts and makes major revisions in the nation's tax laws.

Congress approved the bill Thursday.

Multibillion-dollar general income tax cuts enacted last year to fight the recession would be continued through 1977, worth $180 to a typical family of four making $15,000 a year. Across-the-board business income tax cuts also would be extended.

Some wealthier persons would find a mixture of tax increases and decreases, including hikes of $1 billion a year under the so-called minimum tax on the rich, for example, but cuts of roughly that amount through a sweeping overhaul of gift and estate taxes.

For the first time, many housewives could qualify for tax-deferred pension plans. And a family's tax bills would be cut by as much as $800 a year for parents who must hire a babysitter so they can hold their jobs. A simpler, more generous tax-cutting credit would go to the elderly. Investors would discover their tax shelters are disappearing.

In all, during the five-year federal budget period beginning next month, tax cut extensions for individuals and businesses will cost the Treasury a total of $54.6 billion, another $4.2 billion will be lost through estate and gift tax changes, while other tax revisions are gaining $9.9 billion for the government.

Hanoi May Tap Into U.S. Funds

By R. GREGORY NOLAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist Vietnam may soon qualify for indirect financial aid from the United States and other developed nations by joining the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

Hanoi already has won membership in the IMF over U.S. opposition, and U.S. officials said Thursday they probably will be unable to keep the Vietnamese out of the World Bank, which takes up the issue next week.

As a member of the two institutions, Vietnam likely will become eligible for assistance from several international aid programs to which the United States contributes heavily.

The amount of such assistance is unknown, but it clearly could be many millions of dollars.

Among programs the Socialist Republic of Vietnam almost certainly would qualify for eventually would be the World Bank's International Development Association (IDA), which makes interest-free development loans to poor nations.

Congress has authorized $1.5 billion for the IDA over a four-year period, about one-third of the agency's budget. The rest of the $4.5 billion in the IDA was contributed by other developed nations.

High-ranking U.S. officials are worried over the impact in Congress of Vietnam's membership in the two agencies, especially since Congress has been reluctant in the past to vote funds for programs such as the IDA.

As a member of the IMF, Hanoi already may be eligible for interest-free loans from the IMF's Trust Fund for poor nations, which is financed with profits from the agency's gold auctions. About $174 million has been raised for this fund so far, and the total could grow to $2 billion in several years.

The United States originally contributed to the IMF a large portion of the gold now being auctioned.

It is understood that an IMF inspection team has already visited Vietnam, possibly as a prelude to an IMF loan available to any of the agency's 128 members under its regular lending procedures.

Charles Cooper, the U.S.

executive director to the World Bank, said the United States probably will oppose bank membership for Vietnam during debate next week.

"I think we'll take the same position as we did in the fund," he said in an interview Thursday. But he acknowledged that he is pessimistic about the chances of keeping Hanoi out because it "didn't work" in the fund where the United States was out-voted by other IMF members.

Until the vote against Hanoi in the IMF on Wednesday, the United States had never before voted against a country applying for membership in the institution.

While the United States has veto power over some major actions by the IMF and the World Bank, U.S. officials stressed that the veto does not extend to membership questions, which are decided by majority vote.

Tax Checkoff Plan Would Finance Governor Races

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gubernatorial races would be partially funded by a state income tax checkoff, under a bill approved by the House on a 44-21 vote Thursday.

The bill, which was sent to the Senate, would allow people filing individual state income taxes to check off $2. Persons filing joint state tax returns could check off $4.

The measure is almost identical to a public funding section of the 1975 campaign reform act that was declared unconstitutional by the state Supreme Court, largely on technical grounds.

The new financing bill, sponsored by Rep. John F. Markes, D-Livonia, allows a "major" party candidate for governor to qualify for up to $660,000 in public funding for a primary election campaign and an additional $750,000 for the general election. "Minority" party candidates can qualify for smaller amounts.

The public funds would be distributed to candidates according to a formula. Candidates requesting partial public funding could spend a maximum of $1 million in each primary and general election.

A candidate would qualify for public funding in the primary by collecting $50,000 in private, individual contributions of $100 or less. A candidate could get $2 in public funding for every $1 received in private contributions, up to a maximum of 66 per cent, or $660,000. The candidate could collect a maximum $440,000 in nonpublic funds for the election.

Majority party candidates in the general election would be entitled to up to 75 per cent — or $750,000 — of their spending limit in public funds. The remaining $250,000 would be in private contributions.

Major party candidates would be those whose candidate for governor received 25 per cent or more of the popular vote cast in the preceding gubernatorial election.

In Michigan, that has traditionally meant only Republicans and Democrats.

The voluntary state income tax check-off would become effective as of next April for the taxable year beginning Jan. 1, if the Senate also adopts the measure and it is signed by the governor.

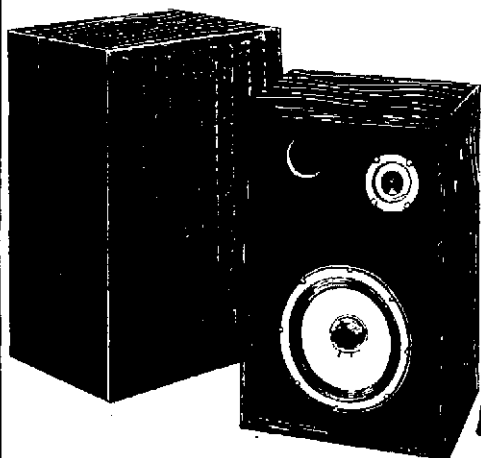

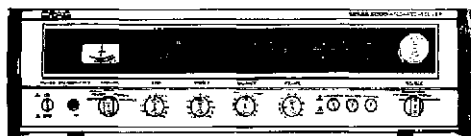

"We put real teeth in it," Markes said, noting that an individual who uses public money for a purpose other than intended would be guilty of a felony and subject to a maximum three years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

Heroin Suspect Is Bound Over

A man charged with possession of heroin with intent to deliver was bound over to circuit court on a lesser charge following preliminary examination Thursday in Berrien Fifth District court.

Bound over to circuit court on a charge of possession of heroin was Charles Percy, 26, of 1061 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, for an alleged Sept. 4 offense. Bond was reduced from $40,000 to $25,000.

A charge of keeper of a house where a controlled substance was used was dismissed against Barbara A. Young, 28, of the same address, who was arrested in the incident. In other cases, Larry Farrow, 26, of 1079 Hall street, and Randy K. Bowman, 18, of 1256 Blossom lane, both Benton township, each demanded examination on a charge of larceny from a motor vehicle Wednesday at G and G Motor Sales in Benton township. Bonds were set at $2,000 each.

Sentenced yesterday were: Leroy Cobb, 19, of 714 Nash street, Niles, 180 days in jail for probation violation on an original charge of possession of marijuana in March, 1975. At that time he was sentenced to fine and costs of $100 and 18 months probation.

Hayes Harris Jr., 23, of 122 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, 180 days in jail on a bench warrant charge of failure to pay court fines on an original charge of driving with a suspended license in April, 1976. At that time he was sentenced to five days in jail, fine and costs of $250 or 180 days total.

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Politics should be taken out of the Michigan Supreme Court by appointing justices rather than electing them, say leaders of the State Bar of Michigan. The bar's board of commissioners has also commended Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh for his refusal to campaign with other party candidates for the high court. State Democrats nominated Wayne Circuit Judge Roman S. Gribbs. Kavanagh, as an incumbent, was able to place his own name on the November ballot.

Senate Is Considering Partial Abortion Ban

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, which has twice refused to accept a complete ban on the use of federal funds for abortions, must now decide whether a partial ban is more acceptable.

A House-passed measure that would prohibit federal funds from being spent for abortions through Medicaid except when the life of a woman is endangered by a full-term pregnancy.

The House approved the proposal Thursday by a 256 to 114 vote. It is attached to a $86.6-billion appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and may face a veto because the appropriations bill is $1 billion more than President Ford asked for.

The abortion amendment was agreed to Wednesday by House-Senate conferees trying to come up with a compromise between the original House bill that would have banned all federal funds for abortions and the Senate bill that had no limiting provisions.

The amendment permits federally funded abortions when they are considered medical necessities by physicians. Such abortions are not precluded when a woman's life is endangered by disease.

The amendment prohibits federal payment for abortions "as a method of family planning or for emotional or social convenience."

Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., who had drafted the abortion amendment, urged his House colleagues to adopt it quickly so that Congress would have time to try and override any presidential veto before the lawmakers adjourn Oct. 2.

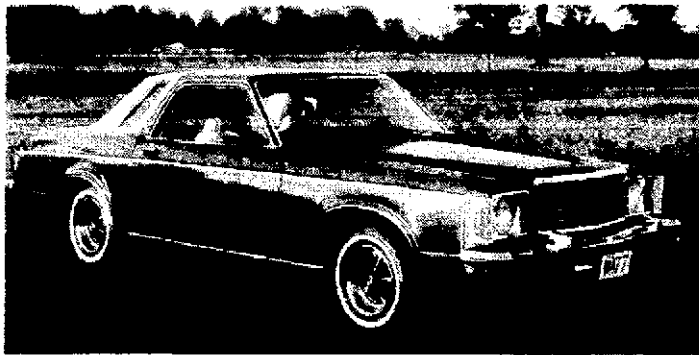

Opponents of the amendment claim it is unconstitutional and invades a woman's right to privacy. They also say it discriminates against poor women who would not have access to such legal medical services except through federal programs.

At least one abortion rights group has already pledged to file a lawsuit seeking to overturn the compromise.

Funds contained in the appropriations bill are for fiscal year 1977 that begins Oct. 1.

A SHOCKING TALE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The shock from an electric reel, though seldom fatal, can contain up to 600 volts of electricity.

FORD GRANADA: Sports Coupe option on Ford Granada for 1977 adds styling flair to first of company's "new generation" cars. Option includes sports steering wheel, dual color-keyed mirrors, styled steel wheels with gold accents and trim rings and gold-painted hood, bodyside and deck lid stripes.

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Sept. 17th, the 261st day of 1976. There are 105 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1787, the Constitution of the United States was completed and signed by a majority of delegates attending the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia.

On this date: In 1665, a bubonic plague broke out in London.

In 1862, in the Civil War, Union forces hurled back a Confederate invasion of Maryland in the battle of Antietam.

In 1939, the debut of the radio

In 1939, the Soviet Union invaded Poland in World War II.

In 1949, more than 130 people were killed when fire destroyed the "Noronic," the largest passenger steamer on the Great Lakes, at a Toronto pier.

Ten years ago: Thirteen whites were arrested in a school integration fight in Grenada, Miss.

Five years ago: Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black retired from the high court at the age of 85, for reasons of health.

One year ago: Hurricane

Elise killed 25 people in Puerto Rico.

Today's birthdays: Ballet choreographer Frederick Ashton is 70 years old. Pulitzer Prize journalist John Hightower is 67.

Thought for today: Anatomy is destiny. — Sigmund Freud.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago, American Gen. Greene said the retirement from New York City was "disorderly and miserable." He said the militia fled at first sight of the enemy.

Ford Readies Swing Through Deep South

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's advisers in charge of his Southern strategy are assuring him that his conservatism and the campaign of third-party candidate Lester Maddox give the President a good chance to win below the Mason-Dixon line.

Announcing plans for a three-day tour of the Deep South next week, Ford said Thursday that he had received an "absolutely" reassuring report on his chances from 13 Republican state chairmen from the South.

And his adviser for Southern politics, Harry Dent, told Ford he should not even rule out winning Georgia, the home state of Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter.

Dent said Ford could make progress against Carter by stressing that he is a conservative while painting Carter as "a born-again liberal."

Ford cited his plans for the Southern trip as the best evidence that he plans "to seek full support from the states in the South."

Raising Drinking Age Is Opposed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two state lawmakers say they will form a committee to oppose efforts to raise the legal drinking age in Michigan.

The group will fight attempts to raise the drinking age from 18 to 21, as some legislators have called for. Bills already have been introduced to raise the drinking age.

The two legislators, Reps. Jackie Vaughn, D-Detroit, and Mark Clodfelter, D-Flint, said the 18-year-old age of majority entitles young people to drink at 18 and such rights should not be abridged.

Vaughn said a number of lawmakers have indicated an interest in joining the fight against attempts to raise the drinking age.

Clodfelter accused backers of the changed drinking age of "misusing statistics" of drinking and auto accidents "to eliminate one segment of these adult rights and responsibilities."

proposal Thursday by a 256 to 114 vote. It is attached to a $36.6-billion appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and may face a veto because the appropriations bill is $4 billion more than President Ford asked for.

The abortion amendment was agreed to Wednesday by House-Senate conferees trying to come up with a compromise between the original House bill that would have banned all federal funds for abortions and the Senate bill that had no limiting provisions.

The amendment permits federally funded abortions when they are considered medical necessities by physicians. Such abortions are not precluded when a woman's life is endangered by disease.

The amendment prohibits federal payment for abortions "as a method of family planning or for emotional or social convenience."

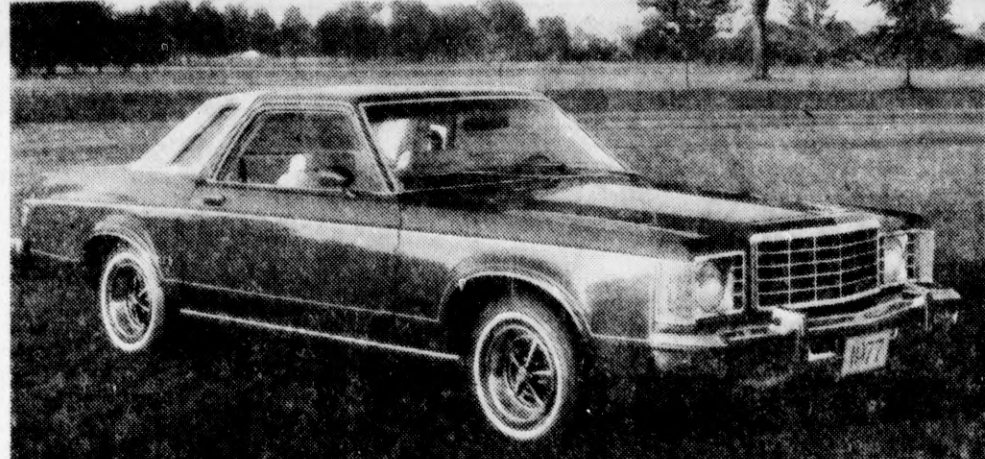

Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., who had drafted the abortion amendment, urged his House colleagues to adopt it quickly so that Congress would have time to try and override any presidential veto before the lawmakers adjourn Oct. 2.

Opponents of the amendment claim it is unconstitutional and invades a woman's right to privacy. They also say it discriminates against poor women who would not have access to such legal medical services except through federal programs.

At least one abortion rights group has already pledged to file a lawsuit seeking to overturn the compromise.

Funds contained in the appropriations bill are for fiscal year 1977 that begins Oct. 1.

Ford Readies Swing Through Deep South

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's advisers in charge of his Southern strategy are assuring him that his conservatism and the campaign of third-party candidate Lester Maddox give the President a good chance to win below the Mason-Dixon line.

Announcing plans for a three-day tour of the Deep South next week, Ford said Thursday that he had received an "absolutely" reassuring report on his chances from 13 Republican state chairmen from the South.

And his adviser for Southern politics, Harry Dent, told Ford he should not even rule out winning Georgia, the home state of Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter.

Dent said Ford could make progress against Carter by stressing that he is a conservative while painting Carter as "a born-again liberal."

Niles Apple Festival Next Week

NILES — The Fourth Annual Four Flags Area Apple Festival gets underway here on Thursday, Sept. 23. The four-day celebration ends on Sunday, Sept. 26.

Highlights of the festival include a Saturday, Sept. 25 grand parade through downtown Niles, and a Friday, Sept. 24 concert by pop music artist Tommy James, who launched his career in Niles 12 years ago.

The most notable change in this year's festival is the relocation of the festival grounds, site for most of the scheduled events. The grounds will be located this year at 17th and Lake streets, near the Niles high school. In the past, the grounds were located on a downtown urban renewal lot.

Also returning to the festival's schedule this year will be the "International Apple Seed Popping Contest," to be held Friday, Sept. 24, at 6 p.m. on the festival grounds. Object of the contest is to pop an apple seed the farthest and straightest by pinching or squeezing the seed with the thumb and index finger. Last year's record was 29 feet, set by Gary Kolk of Niles.

Grand Marshal for the festival parade this year is Col.

Harlan Sanders of Kentucky Fried Chicken fame. Dale Young, parade chairman, said 93 entries for the parade have already been received and he expects more to come. The parade will begin at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 25 and travel through downtown along Main street.

James, a top 40 pop artist, will perform at an 8:30 p.m. concert in the Niles high school auditorium on Friday, Sept. 24. He began his career with the recording of his first hit single ("Hanky Panky") at a Niles radio station.

Other events include continuous displays at the festival grounds all four days; a beer garden and a wine tasting tent at the grounds on Sept. 24 and 25; a Saturday, Sept. 25, 10 a.m. canoe race on the St. Joseph river, and a "Showboat — the 40's," program featuring local talent on Saturday, Sept. 25, at 8 p.m. at the high school auditorium.

The Showboat program began with performances on Sept. 16, 17 and 18.

North Second street, Niles.

The festival name, Four Flags, comes from the four flags (French, English, Spanish and U.S.) that have flown over the area since 1697.

Stakeout Leads To Arrests

The theft of a CB radio planted in a stakeout private security service car led to the arrests of a Benton Harbor couple Thursday, according to Benton Harbor police.

According to police, the radio was planted and the stakeout was conducted by Scope Security service, St. Joseph, at the Sears parking lot, 640 West Main street. A Scope employee, Andrew Lee, Jr., Buchanan, told police he saw a man and woman take the planted radio from a car about 6:30 p.m. and called police.

A car matching the description of the one Lee said he saw was stopped by Patrolman Delmar Lange and Det. Darryl Williamson a short time later in the 200 block of Pipestone street and a CB radio seized.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of larceny from a motor vehicle was Carl Michael Wynn, 24, of 680 East Vineyard street. Police said Carmen Wynn, 20, identified as Carl's wife, was released on her own recognizance because she was more than eight months pregnant. She was also charged with larceny from a motor vehicle and ticketed for driving with a suspended operator's license, police said.

St. Joseph police late Thursday said a St. Joseph man was arrested on a charge of felonious assault after a woman told police a man repeatedly blocked her attempts to drive on a street.

Police said Suzanne E. McIntosh, 2777 Mizpah Park road, Benton Harbor, reported that a man on foot blocked her car from going east on Park street near Lake boulevard about 11 p.m. Police reported an unmarked patrol car followed the woman in her car and police observed a man on foot stop the woman's car and raise a steel bar "as if to strike the car." Police said neither the woman or the car was struck.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Steven Allan Figlus, 24, of 307 Park street.

Benton township police said Maurice Dale O'Bryant, 36, Hot Springs, Ark., was arrested Thursday on charges of breaking and entering and attempted breaking and entering an unoccupied township home and garage.

Police said Clinton Frazier, 1886 Greenley avenue, Benton township, reported he apprehended a man coming out of a house at 202 North Euclid avenue about 7:30 p.m. Frazier told police he is an executor for an estate of which the house is a part. He said he was checking the home and found a garage door and window partially pried open then saw the man when he went to investigate the house. Police said O'Bryant was booked at the Berrien county jail.

James A. Mackeral, route 1, 68th street, South Haven, told Benton Harbor police his 1975 Ford was stolen within 45 minutes from the time he parked it at K-Mart, 455 Riverview drive, Thursday.

Mackeral said he parked the $4,000 auto about 7 p.m. and when he came out at about 7:45 p.m. it was gone.

Other thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—A stereo, baby and women's clothes, $50 in cash and $46 in food stamps from the residence of Justine Davis, 167 Kline street.

—A shotgun, clock radio and watch, all valued at $200, from the home of George White, 124 North Fair avenue.

South Haven Shop Destroyed By Fire

BY TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed Ward's Bait and Tackle shop, Blue Star Memorial highway, South Haven.

A passerby who had stopped to help firemen and the owners remove merchandise from the burning building was admitted to South Haven Community hospital after complaining of chest pains. Several firemen were administered oxygen after being overcome by smoke. None of the firemen required medical attention.

South Haven and Covert firemen labored nearly two hours before bringing the blaze under control. Firemen had to shuttle water to the scene because the area does not have fire hydrants. Several partitions and false ceilings in the building also hampered efforts by firemen to reach the fire.

Exploding gun shells from the store's stock of ammunition and the threat of explosion from propane gas tanks also hindered firemen.

The business was closed when the fire was discovered shortly before noon. Owner Byron Ward and his wife lived in the building, but were out of town when the fire started.

The fire originated near a chimney, but the exact cause was not determined. First firemen to arrive said the wooden frame building was filled with dense smoke.

John Miner, 28, 66th street, South Haven was listed in fair condition today at South Haven Community hospital where he was taken after complaining of chest pains at the fire scene.

Miner, who officials said has a history of heart problems, had been helping remove merchandise from the burning building.

Ward said the building and contents were insured for $25,000, but he estimated loss would be greater because of a large inventory of sporting goods, including firearms.

Ward has operated a bait and tackle shop in the South Haven area for 25 years, the last five years at its present location.

Breaking Up The District

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Senate committee has approved a bill to let voters in the Twin Valley School District in northern Lower Michigan vote on breaking up their district. The district was consolidated in 1968 out of the East Jordan and Boyne City school districts, but little action has been taken since then to unify the two districts. Both school districts are in need of new buildings, but voters cannot agree on building them. The bill, if it passes the legislature, would permit voters in the combined district to approve breaking it up into the two original districts. The measure now goes to the Senate floor. The Twin Valley district includes some 3,000 school students.

Mayor Blames The Media

DETROIT (AP) — If Detroit has a bad image, it's largely the news media's fault, Mayor Coleman Young said. Young charged that both the national and local press dwell on the city's financial and crime problems, neglecting what he called "positive and warm things" about the city. For example, Young told a press conference, a trolley service will be inaugurated next Monday. Another positive sign is a recent small decline in Detroit's crime rate, Young said.

step toward the priesthood, and 324 women studying in seminaries. Defying previous Episcopal rules, 15 women were irregularly ordained in 1974 and 1975. Their status remained uncertain, although the convention may later take some action about them.

"The bishops can write us in the register now, but they're not likely to do it," one of them, the Rev. Alison Cheek of Annandale, Va., told a news conference. Asked if the 15 would accept readmission now that it was authorized, the Rev. Jeannette Piccard of Minneapolis said not, adding, "It would be like a new baptism which is not necessary."

tanding from what the teacher told him was the bookcase was in the middle open room. The bookcase has since been dismantled.

Heater described the bookshelf as being "two feet wide, three feet long, and—as I understand—an adult would have to reach up to get books from the top shelf."

Tracey apparently finished her classwork early Tuesday morning and had received permission from her classroom teacher, Miss Colleen Alford, to go to another part of the room and get a mathematics book, Heater stated.

However, "the teacher related she (Tracey) was not at the bookcase where she had been given permission to get the book," he added.

Heater said the teacher informed him a boy who may be one of Tracey's classmates was with her when the accident happened. He also said he was informed the boy was on the other side of bookcase when it fell.

Heater said he was informed the boy went to the teacher for help as soon as the bookcase fell. The teacher and a school librarian helped remove the bookcase, he continued.

"He (the boy) related to her (the teacher) something about a couple of books falling and the whole thing collapsing," Heater added.

Heater said the teacher informed him she sent a request to Eugene Snider, principal of Red Arrow school, to call for an ambulance as she was helping to remove the bookcase from

Foes Of Medicaid Cut

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Hospital Association (MHA) is seeking repeal of a new state law that will reduce Medicaid payments for some patients requiring long hospitalization. According to MHA officials the law, which takes effect Oct. 1, could also force some hospitals to close. Under the Social Services Appropriations Act, patients who remain in the hospital longer than 75 per cent of all other patients hospitalized with the same diagnosis will not be covered by Medicaid for that additional care. "There is a very good chance that some of our hospitals will have to be closed," said MHA President Patric Ludwig. "The legislature's intent was to save money. I don't think they realized what the impact of their actions would be." Ludwig said the measure would reduce statewide Medicaid payments by $50 million to $60 million and would be particularly hard on Detroit area hospitals, where more people are eligible for Medicaid.

Reye's Syndrome Is Target

DETROIT (AP) — Reye's Syndrome, a mysterious disease that afflicts children, will be the target of Michigan medical researchers who want to discover what causes the malady. The disease is often associated with influenza and chickenpox, but there is no known direct cause and effect between the diseases, said Dr. Edgardo Arciniegas, chief pediatric intensivist at Children's Hospital Michigan who is coordinating the research effort. Wayne State University researchers will also take part in the effort. The research effort has been established with $12,000 contributed by family and friends of victims of the disease. The disease is fatal in about 30 per cent of cases and there is no known cure or preventative measure available. The disease affects the liver, brain and muscles. Symptoms include convulsions and prolonged vomiting.

Esch Picks Up Endorsement

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Rep. Marvin Esch picked up an endorsement Thursday from an anti-abortion group in his fight for a seat in the U.S. Senate. The Michigan Citizens for Life said Esch, an Ann Arbor Republican, "has issued a very strong pro-life statement, including a pledge to support an amendment to the constitution" to reverse Supreme Court rulings permitting legal abortions. The group said Esch's opponent, Rep. Donald Riegle of Flint, "has consistently voted with the pro-abortion forces in Congress." Polls have shown Riegle with a substantial lead over Esch in the early campaign. Esch has said the 1973 Supreme Court decision on abortion was "totally absurd in that it is a direct interference of the parent's rights in relation to a minor pregnant child." He has criticized the ruling on grounds it increased government intrusions into the family.

Not State, But Federal

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Commission on Agriculture says proposed Michigan farm equipment safety standards are too stringent and should be rejected in favor of more lenient federal regulations. The commission announced its support for adoption of federal safety standards under the federal Occupational Safety and Health Act. It met with Labor Director Keith Molin to discuss agriculture's objections to the proposed state regulations. The commission told agriculture department Director B. Dale Ball to urge the Michigan Labor Department's Occupational Safety Standards Commission to abandon its proposed state regulations and adopt the federal standards.

Sexual Assault Charges

ROMEO, Mich. (AP) — Two New Baltimore men have been arraigned on sexual assault charges in the June 6 rape of two teenagers at a township park. John H. Pollard, 20, and William C. Steerzer, 21, stood mute at their arraignment before District Judge Richard McClean. Pollard was charged with two counts of criminal sexual conduct and released on $1,500 bond, while Steerzer was charged with one count and was released on $1,000 bond. The girls, ages 15 and 13, told police they were abducted from the dedication of a Chesterfield Township Park, taken to another location and raped. Pollard's father, long-time Chesterfield Township treasurer James H. Pollard, lost his bid for reelection in the August primary after the incident became a campaign controversy.

CRASH INJURES FOUR: Four people suffered minor injuries in two-car collision last night which sent both cars into corn field off Pullman road, west of Pullman in Casco township of Allegan county. State police from South Haven said car in lower photo, driven by Gene Hoffman, 31, Dallas, Tex., struck back of car in upper photo, driven by Charles Bielik, 23, route 4, Fennville. Force of impact flipped Bielik car upside down while Hoffman car cut a 300-foot long path through corn field. Troopers said both cars had been westbound when accident occurred about 10:05 p.m. Treated and released from South Haven Community hospital were Bielik, his wife Kathy, 19, Hoffman, and passenger in his car, John Parks, 23, Pullman. Troopers issued Hoffman citation charging him with being drunk and disorderly. (Tom Renner photos) over to the band and were treated to a lusty rendition of "State Fair" and a pregame fight song.

"I had the privilege of listening to you at breakfast and I can't think of a better thing than having a great band outside my window," she said.

Mrs. Ford wished the school luck Saturday, urging the Spartans to "Go! Go! Go! Go! Go! Go!" for a home football game against Wyoming.

MSU has lost a number of good players and was charged with recruiting violations by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The school was crushed 49-21 by Ohio State last Saturday.

After visiting with the band, Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Wharton met Helen Milliken, wife of Gov. William Milliken, at a campus exhibit of Michigan folk art from the 18th century to the present.

Following the phone bank visit in downtown Lansing, Mrs. Ford went to the airport and flew to Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Ford told a newsmen at the telephone center that she feared for her husband's life for "an instant" when a firecracker exploded at the University of Michigan's Crisler Arena during a presidential speech Wednesday night.

"I had my eyes on the President and I was naturally quite shocked. But when I saw him still standing and still speaking, I relaxed and realized he had not been injured," said Mrs. Ford, who was on stage with him at the time.

In another telephone call,

Mrs. Ford told Cindy Dodge of Lansing, "Talk to the milkman, the groceryman and the man at the service station ... After all Michigan is our homestate and we want to sweep Michigan."

Mrs. Dodge said the call surprised her and "I was blushing. I knew it was her because I recognized her voice but I told her I was only 22 and didn't know much about politics."

Mrs. Ford said in return that it took her, too, a long time to learn about politics.

Mrs. Ford seemed rested and buoyant during her half-day Lansing stay. She lingered for about 45 minutes on her stroll through the Michigan folk art exhibit, talking to the show arranger and his wife. And she stayed about a half an hour longer than expected at the telephone center, which was sweltering in the crush of GOP volunteers and reporters.

Moments before she departed from Capitol City Airport, she greeted wide-eyed grade school children from Lansing's Windemere School, who lined a fence near the runway, cheering and holding up handpainted signs.

Inmate Attempts Suicide

Berrien sheriff's officers said a Berrien jail inmate attempted to hang himself while in an isolation cell Thursday.

The inmate was identified as Oliver A. Hardy, 24, who was returned to the jail after treatment at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, according to a report filed by jail guard Sgt. Irv Palmer.

Palmer said he opened the door to Hardy's cell shortly before 5 p.m. to give him his dinner. He said the man had a piece of gauze around his neck that was attached to the door. Palmer said Hardy was taken by ambulance to the hospital and returned to the jail shortly before 8 p.m.

Jail records indicate that Hardy is in jail on charges of armed robbery and larceny from a building.

South Haven Shop Destroyed By Fire

South Haven Correspondent
 SOUTH HAVEN — Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed Ward's Bait and Tackle shop, 100 Star Memorial highway, South Haven.

Passerby who had stopped to help firemen and the owners were merchandise from the burning building was admitted South Haven Community hospital after complaining of chest pains. Several firemen administered oxygen after being overcome by smoke. None of the firemen required medical attention.

South Haven and Covert firemen labored nearly two hours before bringing the blaze under control. Firemen had to shuttle water to the scene because the area does not have fire hydrants. Several partitions and false ceilings in the building also hampered efforts by firemen to reach the fire.

Exploding gun shells from the store's stock of ammunition and the threat of explosion from propane gas tanks also hindered firemen.

The business was closed when the fire was discovered shortly before noon. Owner Byron Ward and his wife lived in the building, but were out of town when the fire started.

The fire originated near a chimney, but the exact cause was not determined. First firemen to arrive said the wooden frame building was filled with dense smoke.

John Miner, 28, 66th street, South Haven was listed in fair condition today at South Haven Community hospital where he was taken after complaining of chest pains at the fire scene.

Miner, who officials said has a history of heart problems, had been helping remove merchandise from the burning building.

Ward said the building and contents were insured for $25,000, but he estimated loss would be greater because of a large inventory of sporting goods, including firearms.

Ward has operated a bait and tackle shop in the South Haven area for 25 years, the last five years at its present location.

Breaking Up The District

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Senate committee has approved a bill to let voters in the Twin Valley School District in northern Lower Michigan vote on breaking up their district. The district was consolidated in 1968 out of the East Jordan and Boyne City school districts, but little action has been taken since then to unify the two districts. Both school districts are in need of new buildings, but voters cannot agree on building them. The bill, if it passes the legislature would, permit voters in the combined district to approve breaking it up into the two original districts. The measure now goes to the Senate floor. The Twin Valley district includes some 3,000 school students.

Mayor Blames The Media

DETROIT (AP) — If Detroit has a bad image, it's largely the news media's fault, Mayor Coleman Young said. Young charged that both the national and local press dwell on the city's financial and crime problems, neglecting what he called "positive and warm things" about the city. For example, Young told a press conference, a trolley service will be inaugurated next Monday. Another positive sign is a recent small decline in Detroit's crime rate, Young said.

step toward the priesthood, and 324 women studying in seminaries. Defying previous Episcopal rules, 15 women were irregularly ordained in 1974 and 1975. Their status remained uncertain, although the convention may later take some action about them.

"The bishops can write us in the register now, but they're not likely to do it," one of them, the Rev. Alison Cheek of Annandale, Va., told a news conference. Asked if the 15 would accept reordination now that it was authorized, the Rev. Jeannette Piccard of Minneapolis said not, adding, "It would be like a new baptism which is not necessary."

tanding from what the teacher told him was the bookcase was in the middle open room. The bookcase has since been dismantled.

Heater described the bookshelf as being "two feet wide, three feet long, and—as I understand—an adult would have to reach up to get books from the top shelf."

Tracey apparently finished her classwork early Tuesday morning and had received permission from her classroom teacher, Miss Colleen Alford, to go to another part of the room and get a mathematics book, Heater stated.

However "the teacher related she (Tracey) was not at the bookcase where she had been given permission to get the book," he added.

Heater said the teacher informed him a boy who may be one of Tracey's classmates was with her when the accident happened. He also said he was informed the boy was on the other side of bookcase when it fell.

Heater said he was informed the boy went to the teacher for help as soon as the bookcase fell. The teacher and a school librarian helped remove the bookcase, he continued.

"He (the boy) related to her (the teacher) something about a couple of books falling and the whole thing collapsing," Heater added.

Heater said the teacher informed him she sent a request to Eugene Snider, principal of Red Arrow school, to call for an ambulance as she was helping to remove the bookcase from Tracey.

He said the school board members "expressed their condolences" to him and his wife about the accident while visiting them in the hospital.

The board members "felt quite grieved and offered to be of help in any way they could," Heater added.

Tracey Jo was born June 25, 1966, in Watervliet.

She was a member of the Irish Community 4-H Club of Hartford.

Surviving in addition to her parents are, four brothers, David, Michael, Matthew and Timothy, all at home; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Heater, Benton Harbor and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Gould, Sister Lakes.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Hartford Federated church. Burial will be in Keeler cemetery.

Friends may call at the Calvin funeral home, Hartford.

Memorials may be made to the Neurology department of Borgess hospital or to Grace Christian school, Watervliet.

Foes Of Medicaid Cut

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Hospital Association (MHA) is seeking repeal of a new state law that will reduce Medicaid payments for some patients requiring long hospitalization. According to MHA officials the law, which takes effect Oct. 1, could also force some hospitals to close. Under the Social Services Appropriations Act, patients who remain in the hospital longer than 75 per cent of all other patients hospitalized with the same diagnosis will not be covered by Medicaid for that additional care. "There is a very good chance that some of our hospitals will have to be closed," said MHA President Patric Ludwig. "The legislature's intent was to save money. I don't think they realized what the impact of their actions would be." Ludwig said the measure would reduce statewide Medicaid payments by $50 million to $60 million and would be particularly hard on Detroit area hospitals, where more people are eligible for Medicaid.

Reye's Syndrome Is Target

DETROIT (AP) — Reye's Syndrome, a mysterious disease that afflicts children, will be the target of Michigan medical researchers who want to discover what causes the malady. The disease is often associated with influenza and chickenpox, but there is no known direct cause and effect between the diseases, said Dr. Edgardo Arcinue, chief pediatric intensivist at Children's Hospital Michigan who is coordinating the research effort. Wayne State University researchers will also take part in the effort. The research effort has been established with $12,000 contributed by family and friends of victims of the disease. The disease is fatal in about 50 per cent of cases and there is no known cure or preventative measure available. The disease affects the liver, brain and muscles. Symptoms include convulsions and prolonged vomiting.

Smashup Puts Man In Hospital

A Coloma man this morning was reported in good condition in Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, after being injured in a two-car accident on US-33 in Hagar township about 1:48 a.m.

A hospital spokesman said William Richard Vollrath, 37, of 6674 Beck road, Coloma, sustained back pains, cuts and bruises.

Berrien sheriff's deputies reported the accident occurred when an auto driven by Nancy Lynn Rose, 20, Carolyn road Lake Michigan Beach, collided with the Vollrath auto.

Sheriff's deputies reported Vollrath was heading north on route 33 and Miss Rose was turning out of the Famous gas station on the southbound side at the time of the collision.

Miss Rose received a ticket for reckless driving.

Marijuana Possession Is Charged

COLOMA — Coloma township police said they arrested Hagar township man last night after nine small bags of suspected marijuana were found in an auto search.

Booked into the Berrien county jail was Merle David Dowling, 17, 2768 Kerlikowsk road, Hagar township. He was charged with possession of marijuana with intent to deliver, according to Coloma township police Sgt. Thomas LaVanway, the arresting officer.

Officers said Dowling was passenger in a car driven by a man identified only as Brad Le Birmingham, 18, Birmingham was not arrested. Officers said the car was stopped on Red Arrow highway about 7 p.m.

Watervliet Hospital Gets $4.2 Million Loan

BY STEVE McQUOWN
Assistant State Editor

WATERVLIET — The federal Farmer's Home administration has approved a $4.2 million loan for construction of a new Watervliet Community hospital.

The loan will be for 40 years at an annual interest of five per cent, according to a spokesman for U.S. Congressman Edward Hutchinson (R-St. Joseph) who announced the loan approval.

The loan will be applied towards construction of a 70-bed hospital to replace the current 63-bed facility. Total project cost has been estimated at $5.2 million by hospital officials. Hospital and community officials are also currently in the process of trying to raise $750,000 in local contributions towards construction.

The new hospital is to be built on a 23-acre parcel adjacent to the high school. The loan approval announcement yesterday said the new building is to be a three-level structure with a total 56,000 square feet of floor space.

It will increase the number of medical-surgical beds from 51 to 58, increase intensive care-cardiac care beds from two to four while reducing pediatric care beds from 10 to eight. It is anticipated the new hospital will have a service area population of from 25,000 to 30,000 people, the Farmer's Home announcement added.

Richard Lindenberg, president of the hospital's board of trustees, said the FHA loan had assured the retention of the hospital in Watervliet. He said the financing provides the means for keeping the fine doctors already on the hospital staff and a very real opportunity to attract more.

The hospital official said the building fund drive was continuing so that the loan could be reduced, and thereby cause a reduction in daily charges for care.

WINETASTERS: Winetasters line up for samples inside Wine Haus at Warner Vineyards, one of three Paw Paw wineries, yesterday as the 9th annual Grape and Wine festival got underway. Tours of the Warner winery begin and end in Wine Haus. From 50,000 to 75,000 people are expected to watch Saturday's 1 p.m. festival parade. Variety and magic shows, and a melodrama, all at 8 p.m., are scheduled for tonight.

'Sunshine' Meeting Bill Wins Approval

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A landmark "sunshine" bill requiring public bodies to conduct their business in open session is on its way to the governor's desk after rapid approval by the legislature Thursday.

The House voted 86-7 to approve one of the most controversial measures of the past few years. The Senate approved the bill, the product of a House-Senate conference committee, earlier in the day.

The measure covers the business of public bodies from local school boards to the legislature itself.

The bill is weaker than the version originally passed by the House, and permits closed-door "executive sessions" in a variety of instances. But it is tougher than the original Senate bill, which was denounced as a "sham" by proponents of stringent open meetings requirements.

requirements.

If Gov. William Milliken signs the latest version, as expected, it would become effective next April.

The legislature has battled over open meetings bills for years, repeatedly gutting them and letting them die short of passage.

But Thursday the Senate voted 31-3 — after rejecting the bill earlier this summer — for a measure which many supporters of the concept acclaimed as strong but fair legislation.

"It's something the people can be proud of — it shows that public officials don't have anything to hide and can conduct the business of the people before the people," said the bill's sponsor, Sen. David Plawczyk, D-Deerborn Heights.

Other backers of a tougher open meeting law, however, said it contains a loophole by permitting informal social gatherings of a public body — where decisions are often made — and permits too many instances where officials can go behind closed doors legally.

"It's a small step forward," said Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, who sponsored the toughest open meeting bill of the current session.

The bill requires all deliberations and decisions made by public agencies to be made in open session, with a few exceptions.

Meetings could be closed to the public on a two-thirds vote of the body only in certain instances: discipline of an employee or public officer; dismissal or discipline of a student by a school district; strategy and negotiation sessions during collective bargaining; consideration of purchases of property; and discussion of pending legal matters.

A public body would have to list its meeting dates at the start of every year, and special or rescheduled meetings would require 18 hours' notice.

Detailed minutes of public meetings would have to be kept and made available for public inspection.

The attorney general, prosecuting attorney or any citizen could file suit to challenge the validity of any decision made illegally in a closed-door session. The circuit court would have the power to invalidate any decision made illegally.

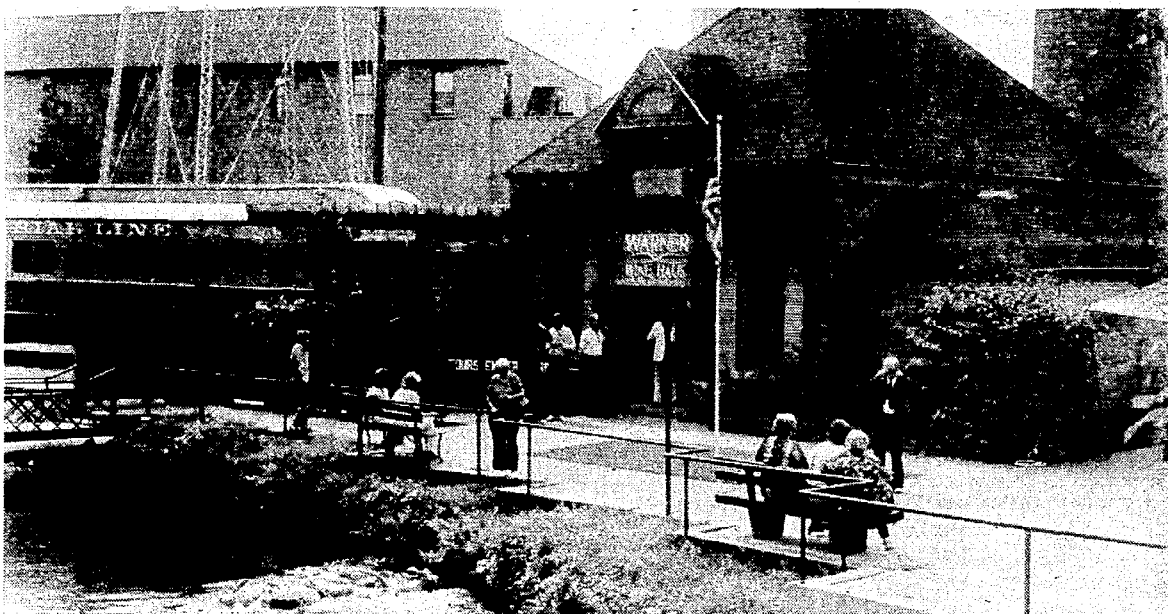

The public body, however, could re-enact a disputed decision, after which it would be effective.

A public official who intentionally violated the act would be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $1,000, along with liability for damages. Conviction for a second violation within the same term of office would mean automatic removal from office.

Party caucuses in the state legislature would be exempt from the bill's provisions, even though public policy is discussed. And some lawmakers criticized the bill for permitting collective bargaining negotiations behind closed doors.

Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, charged the Michigan Education Association pressured the legislature to exempt such teacher bargaining sessions from the bill's provisions. He called the bill a "phony" since it exempted such costly public decision-making.

Gobles Couple Fight For Dog

GOBLES — Ronald and Judy O'Connor are scheduled to appear Oct. 4 in Kalamazoo county Circuit court for the opening round of an unusual custody battle over a three-year-old, 65-pound Siberian husky.

The rural Gobles couple say the Kalamazoo Humane Society sold their dog, Nyak, to new owners. The O'Connors have filed an $11,500 lawsuit to try to get him back.

Mrs. O'Connor said Wednesday she would even buy the new owners another husky.

But the Humane Society will not release the names of people who buy dogs, so the O'Connors will go to Kalamazoo Circuit Court to force the society to identify the new owners, Mrs. O'Connor said.

"It's a screwy situation," she said. "But I want him back. He's just like a part of the family."

She said her family had raised Nyak, named after an Alaskan river.

He disappeared from their home in this small town, near Kalamazoo on July 30.

In mid-August, a Gobles resident told the family he had found the dog but turned it over to the Humane Society in Kalamazoo, in the next county.

But the society had given Nyak to another family after the four-day waiting period required by state law, Mrs. O'Connor said.

The new owners told society officials they would not return the husky, she said.

Thomas Huff, the society attorney, called the O'Connor's lawsuit "frivolous."

"It's Mr. O'Connor's fault for, No. 1, not having identification on the dog, and No. 2, not having control of the animal," he said.

But Mrs. O'Connor said her children, Rodney, 8, and Wendy, 5, pray every night that Nyak will come home.

"My little girl said, 'If it was me, and I had some little girl's dog, I wouldn't keep it,'" Mrs. O'Connor said. "She wants to call and ask them nice if they'd give us our dog back."

AEROSOL SPRAYS ARE TARGET

House Passes Fluorocarbon Ban

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Fluorocarbons, which critics say damage the earth's ozone layer, would be banned from aerosol spray cans sold in Michigan under legislation approved Thursday by the state House.

The measure, which would be effective Jan. 1, 1978, would ban the use of fluorocarbons, most frequently known as Freon, in thousands of household products. The measure was passed 84-11 and sent to the Senate.

Proponents claim the chemicals used as aerosol propellants in household products such as underarm deodorants, hairsprays and other household spray products break up the ozone layer which protects the earth from ultraviolet radiation. Such radiation is suspected of raising the incidence of skin cancer.

Fluorocarbons are inert non-toxic compounds and supporters of the bill say many acceptable substitutes are available.

Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, said, "This high vote for the bill should give impetus to Senate action and hopefully will spur similar action nationwide and worldwide."

The DuPont Corp., which operates a manufacturing plant in Montague, Mich., was the bill's main opponent. The Michigan Chamber of Commerce also opposed it, saying fluorocarbon damage was unproven and the bill would cost 25 to 35 jobs in Michigan.

Bullard said in the case of underarm deodorants, roll-on applicators can be used instead. Bullard said if a spray is necessary, compressed air can be used as a substitute. He also said many spray paints use hydrocarbon jet action, but that hydrocarbons are flammable and can be dangerous when inhaled.

Oregon has passed a bill that will ban the retail sale of fluorocarbon products as of March 1, 1977. New York state has voted to ban retail sales of the products in 1978.

"This is a step in the right direction," Bullard said when asked what effect a three-state ban could have on the ozone layer.

"Clearly action will be needed throughout the world. And 50 per cent of the Freon use is in the United States," Bullard said.

Two Charged As School Vandals

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county sheriff's detectives said they arrested two men yesterday in connection with a Sept. 5 incident in which about $3,000 worth of windows were smashed by vandals at the Kincheloe elementary school in Wayne township.

Arrested were Forrest

Headley, 17, route 3, Twin Lakes road, Dowagiac, and Norman Karasch, 20, route 1, Decatur.

Officers said both men were charged with malicious destruction of property over $100.

A warrant is being sought for the arrest of a third person, officers said. An informant's tip led to the arrests.

Watervliet Hospital Gets $4.2 Million Loan

BY STEVE McQUOWN
Assistant State Editor

WATERVLIET — The federal Farmer's Home Administration has approved a $4.2 million loan for construction of a new Watervliet Community hospital. The loan will be for 40 years at an annual interest of 6 percent, according to a spokesman for U.S. Department of Agriculture (R-St. Joseph) who declined to comment on the loan approval. The loan will be applied towards construction of a new hospital to replace the current 63-bed facility. The project cost has been estimated at $5.2 million.

by hospital officials. Hospital and community officials are also currently in the process of trying to raise $750,000 in local contributions towards construction.

The new hospital is to be built on a 23-acre parcel adjacent to the high school. The loan approval announcement yesterday said the new building is to be a three-level structure with a total 56,000 square feet of floor space.

It will increase the number of medical-surgical beds from 51 to 58, increase intensive care-cardiac care beds from two to four while reducing pediatric care beds from 10 to eight. It is anticipated the new hospital will have a service area population of from 25,000 to 30,000 people, the Farmer's Home announcement added.

Richard Lindenberg, president of the hospital's board of trustees, said the FHA loan had assured the retention of the hospital in Watervliet. He said the financing provides the means for keeping the fine doctors already on the hospital staff and a very real opportunity to attract more.

The hospital official said the building fund drive was continuing so that the loan could be reduced, and thereby cause a reduction in daily charges for care.

'Sunshine' Meeting Bill Wins Approval

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A landmark "sunshine" bill requiring public bodies to conduct their business in open session is on its way to the governor's desk after rapid approval by the legislature Thursday.

The House voted 86-7 to approve one of the most controversial measures of the past few years. The Senate approved the bill, the product of a House-Senate conference committee, earlier in the day.

The measure covers the business of public bodies from local school boards to the legislature itself.

The bill is weaker than the version originally passed by the House, and permits closed-door "executive sessions" in a variety of instances. But it is tougher than the original Senate bill, which was denounced as a "sham" by proponents of stringent open meetings requirements.

If Gov. William Milliken signs the latest version, as expected, it would become effective next April.

The legislature has battled over open meetings bills for years, repeatedly gutting them and letting them die short of passage.

But Thursday the Senate voted 31-3 — after rejecting the bill earlier this summer — for a measure which many supporters of the concept acclaimed as strong but fair legislation.

"It's something the people can be proud of — it shows that public officials don't have anything to hide and can conduct the business of the people before the people," said the bill's sponsor, Sen. David Plawewski, D-Deerborn Heights.

Other backers of a tougher open meeting law, however, said it contains a loophole by permitting informal social gatherings of a public body — where decisions are often made — and permits too many instances where officials can go behind closed doors legally.

"It's a small step forward," said Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, who sponsored the toughest open meeting bill of the current session.

The bill requires all deliberations and decisions made by public agencies to be made in open session, with a few exceptions.

Meetings could be closed to the public on a two-thirds vote of the body only in certain instances: discipline of an employee or public officer; dismissal or discipline of a student by a school district; strategy and negotiation sessions during collective bargaining; consideration of purchases of property; and discussion of pending legal matters.

A public body would have to list its meeting dates at the start of every year, and special or rescheduled meetings would require 18 hours' notice.

Detailed minutes of public meetings would have to be kept and made available for public inspection.

The attorney general, prosecuting attorney or any citizen could file suit to challenge the validity of any decision made illegally in a closed-door session. The circuit court would have the power to invalidate any decision made illegally.

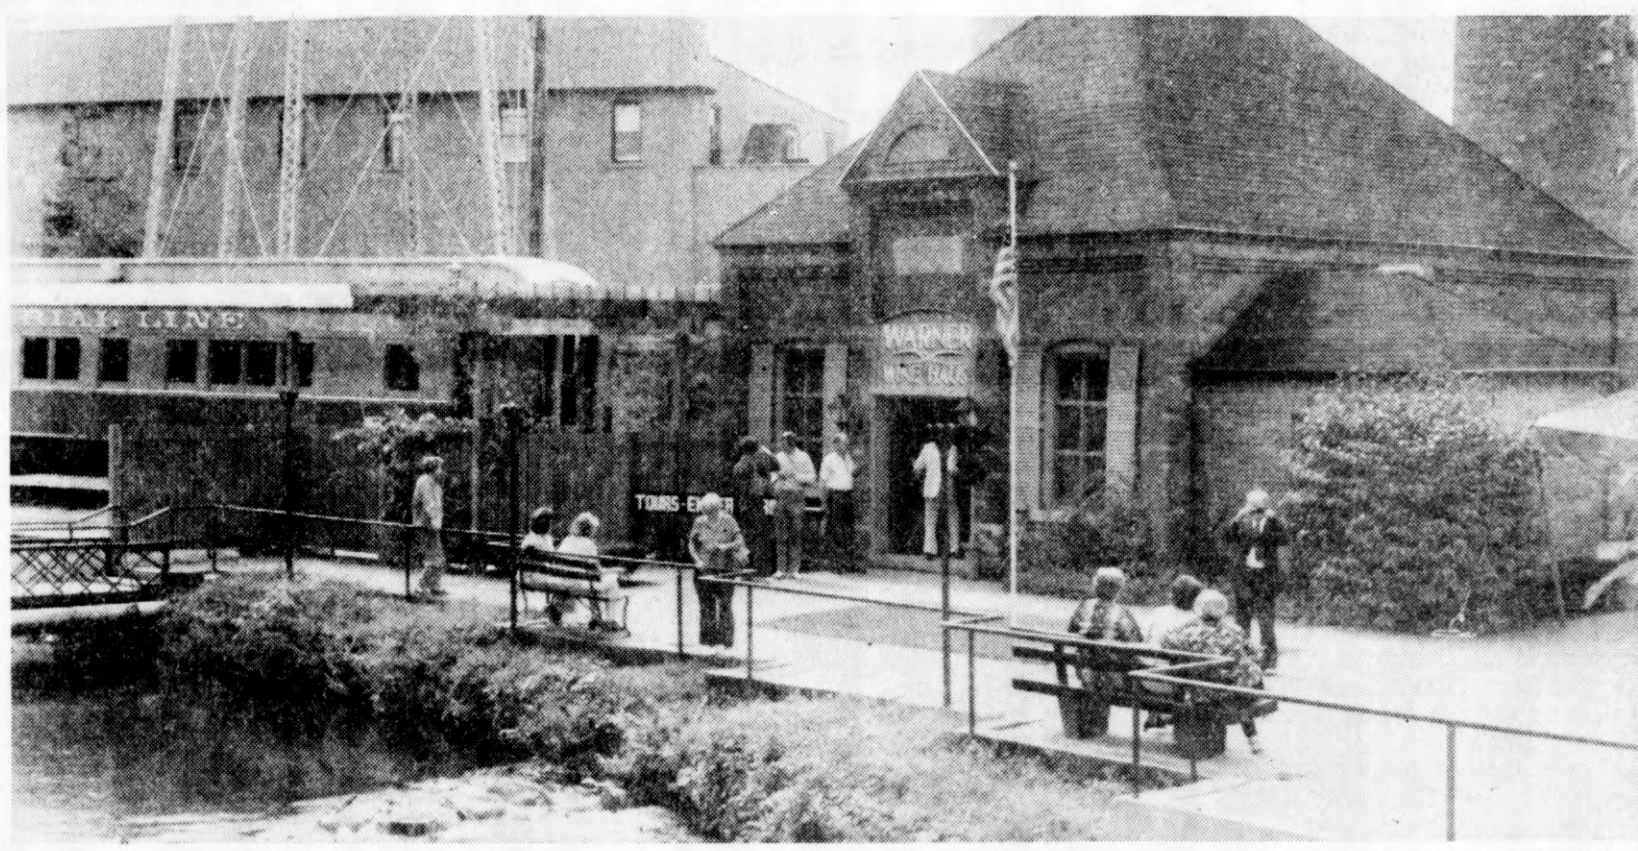

The public body, however, could re-enact a disputed decision, after which it would be effective.

A public official who intentionally violated the act would be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $1,000, along with liability for damages. Conviction for a second violation within the same term of office would mean automatic removal from office.

Party caucuses in the state legislature would be exempt

Penn State Makes National Title Bid Against OSU

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Penn State football Coach Joe Paterno figures this is the time or his Nittany Lions to make a major bid for a national championship.

Penn State, rated seventh in the week's Associated Press poll, is second-rated Ohio State and it is not hard to figure what could happen if Paterno's team beats the Buckeyes in the regionally televised game.

Also scheduled to be shown on regional television are ninth-rated Georgia at Clemson, Colorado at Washington and Yale at Brown.

Paterno, the winningest coach in college football over the past decade (94-18-1) says, "It's a great time for us to play Ohio State. We're coming off a win (15-12) over a good team (Stanford). Ohio State won its first game. It's on regional television. It's an incentive to our people."

Ohio State, ranked No. 2 behind rival Michigan, embarks on probably the toughest three-week run any college football schedule could provide.

In rapid-fire order, Coach Woody Hayes must prepare his Buckeyes for seventh-ranked Penn State this Saturday followed by sixth-ranked Missouri and then fifth-ranked UCLA.

Woody apparently has the horses again and the oddsmakers rate the Buckeyes 10 points over Penn State although the game is at University Park. Last year Ohio State defeated Penn State 17-9 at Columbus.

Paterno is not overestimating his team's strength.

"We're a good football team, but certainly not outstanding, not yet. I'm pleased with the defense. The offense is a little slower coming around. We're about at where I figured we'd be. It may take three or four more games to be pretty good," he said.

Paterno has indicated that his team may be the best he has had going into a sea on since the 1973 team. That club was 12-0 and beat Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl.

Paterno has his team passing more. Its most important play still is the fullback running inside, but the attack forces defenses to be more careful.

Ohio State passed the ball twice last week against Michigan State, completing one. The Buckeyes won 49-21.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler knows his club will be challenged by quarterback Mike Cordova, who passed for 290 yards when the teams got together for a 19-19 tie last year. He'll be facing a defense that gave up 268 yards in a 40-27 triumph over Wisconsin last week.

Schembechler called Cordova "a passer — a REAL passer ... You and I know they're gonna get 200-300 yards passing Saturday."

The rest of the Big Ten schedule finds Illinois at Missouri, Nebraska at Indiana, Syracuse at Iowa, Wyoming at Michigan State, Washington State at Minnesota, Northwestern at North Carolina, Purdue at Notre Dame and North Dakota at Wisconsin.

If Illinois' vaunted defense can contain Missouri's explosive offense, it could turn out to be one of the best games of the day. Last year the Illini had the Tigers hanging before Missouri bolted to a 30-20 victory.

Indiana and Purdue have tough assignments against teams which ran into trouble the previous week. Indiana faces a Nebraska team which was ranked No. 1 before that 6-6 tie at Louisiana State. The Hoosiers lost the services of Courtney Snyder, their all-time leading rusher, because of a broken ankle.

Purdue catches Notre Dame after the Irish were humbled by Pitt 31-10 in a nationally televised game. Notre Dame is a 10 favorite but Purdue has beaten Notre Dame 17 times, more than any other team.

Northwestern will have its hands full at North Carolina. The Heels are 2-0, ranked 17th and eight-point favorites.

Syracuse and Iowa, both losers last week, are rated even, lost to Syracuse 10-7 last year.

In other afternoon games involving members of the Top 10, California visits fourth-rated Oklahoma, sixth-ranked Michigan hosts Illinois, No. 8 Nebraska tries to avoid an upset at Iowa and Maryland puts its No. 10 rating on the line at West Virginia.

Third-rated Pitt and Heisman Trophy hopeful Tony Dorsett at Georgia Tech and Arizona goes against fifth-ranked UCLA, two of the top night games.

Other top nonconference games include Kansas State at A&M, No. 11 in this week's poll; Kentucky at Kansas, No. 12; Southern Methodist vs. No. 14 Alabama; Northwestern at Carolina, No. 17; Tulane at Mississippi, No. 20; Oklahoma vs. No. 12 Arkansas; Oregon State at No. 16 Louisiana State; North Texas State at No. 19 Texas.

Stargell Homer Cuts Phillies' Lead Pirates Have Willie

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Where there's a Willie, there's a way for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We're not giving up," says Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell. We have the will to continue, no matter what the circumstances."

Stargell sounded Pittsburgh's mestretch battle cry after assisting a home run to help theirates beat the Philadelphia illies 7-6 Thursday night and at their National League East ad to four games.

It was 15½ games at one point st month, but the swaggering irates have chopped most of it f by winning 17 of their last 22 arts — including five straight gainst the Phillies.

The teams played through a ng rain delay and the Pirates ew leads of 5-0 and 6-4 before illing it out on Rennie Stennett's dramatic ninth-inning uble.

"I've been hitting line drives people," said Stennett. Luckily this one found the ap."

While the Phillies and Pirates were making the National League East more interesting, Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles 4-2 and moved closer to winning the West.

Stennett doubled home pinch-runner Miguel Dilone in the ninth inning off ace reliever Ron Reed.

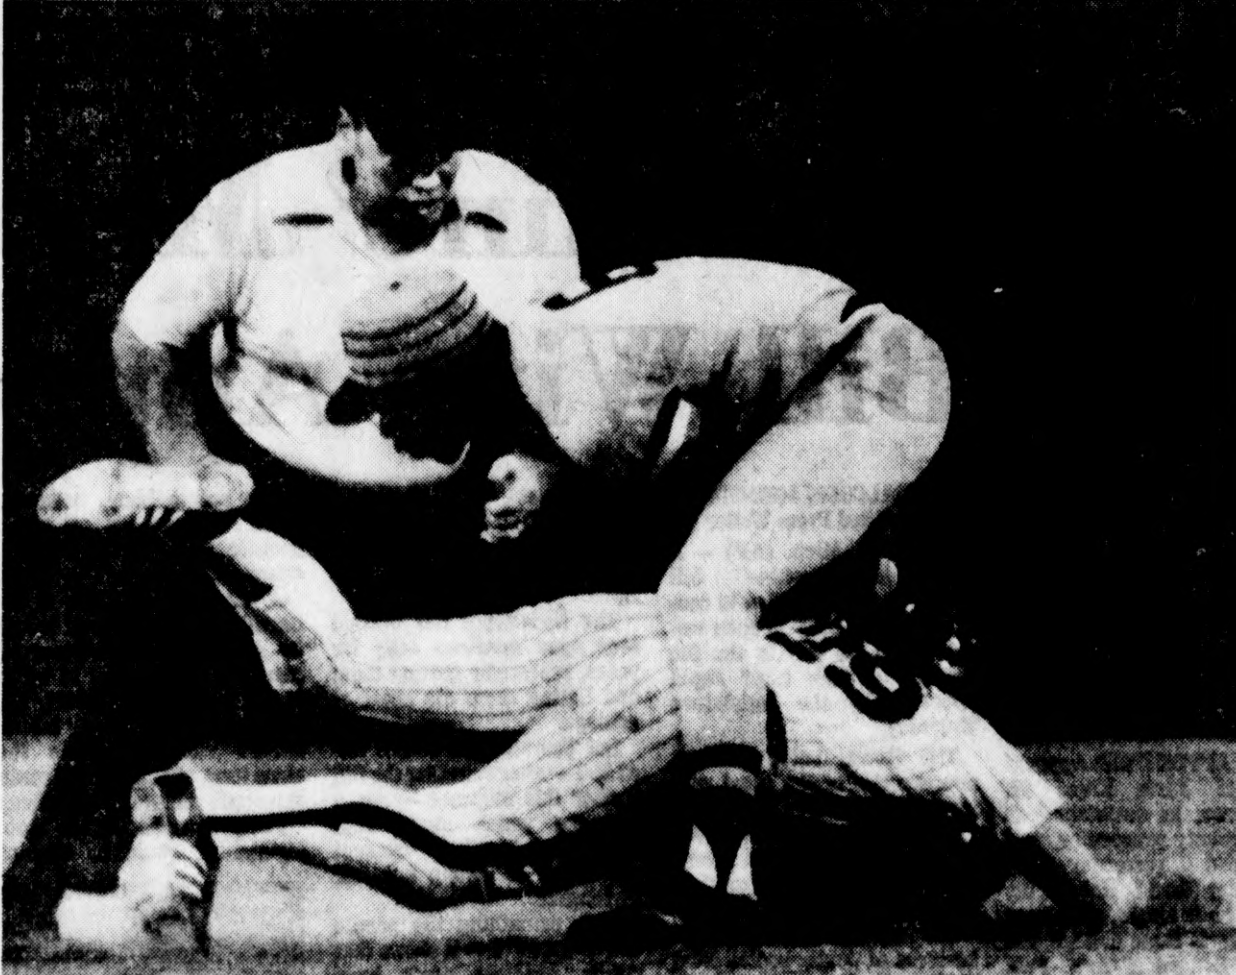

Elsewhere in National League play, Atlanta trimmed Houston 5-3; the New York Mets turned back St. Louis 4-1 and Montreal nipped the Chicago Cubs 4-3.

Cincinnati left-hander Don Gullett, finding his 1975 form after a month of inactivity, won his second straight start by beating Los Angeles with a seven-hitter. The victory reduced Cincinnati's "magic" number to four.

Dave May keyed a four-run eighth inning with a two-run triple after Jim Wynn had tied the score with a pinch home run, giving Atlanta its victory over Houston. Phil Niekro, 15-11, was the winner.

Jerry Koosman of New York became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career when he stopped St. Louis with a four-hit, 13-strikeout performance.

Jose Morales set two major league pinch-hitting records with a three-run double in the seventh inning that gave Montreal its victory over Chicago.

Ford Homers Topple Oakland

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oakland A's had a notion about gaining ground on Kansas City in the American League West race, but Ford had a better idea.

Dan Ford, that is.

Ford, a former A's farmhand, hit a pair of two-run homers to back Bill Singer's four-hit pitching and give Minnesota a 4-0 victory over Oakland Thursday night. That loss, coupled with Kansas City's 2-0 triumph over California, dropped the A's 4½ games behind the front-running Royals in the AL West.

Elsewhere in the American League, Texas trimmed the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Boston edged Milwaukee 4-3. New York at Cleveland was rained out, while Baltimore and Detroit were not scheduled.

Ford homered off Stan Bahnsen, 8-6, in the fourth inning with Rod Carew on base and rocked Bahnsen again in the sixth, this time with Lyman Bostock aboard. Seven of Ford's 19 homers this year have come against the A's, who traded him to Minnesota after the 1974 season.

"They caught me in a hot streak," said Ford, who also homered in a 4-2 victory over the A's Tuesday. "I guess you could say I play a little harder against Oakland. I signed with them, but never got a chance."

Ford spent four years in the A's farm system before he was obtained by the Twins in a trade for utilityman Pat Bourque.

"It bothered me at the time," said Ford, "but it actually worked out for the best."

Ford won a starting outfield berth with Minnesota in 1975, batting .280 with 15 homers. This year he's hitting .273 with 19 homers and 80 runs batted in.

Singer, 11-9, recorded his fourth shutout of the season and his third since joining the Twins in June in a deal with Texas. He allowed just four singles and two walks.

Kansas City, held hitless by Frank Tanana for five innings, came out to beat the Angels on Buck Martinez' two-run homer in the seventh inning.

Marty Pattin, 8-12, pitched a five-hitter for the Royals, who only got five hits off Tanana, 16-10.

The victory was only the sixth in the last 19 games for the Royals, who had seen a 12-game lead shrink to just 3½ games in a little over a month.

Butch Hobson, the rookie who inherited Rico Petrocelli's third-base job, beat Milwaukee with a home run for the second time in two nights, belting a two-run shot in the ninth inning.

He also had the game-winner in Wednesday's 2-1 Boston victory.

George Scott and rookie Dan Thomas homered for Milwaukee.

Bo Hopes Michigan Alert 'Sleeper' Stanford Gunning For Upset

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Coach Bo Schembechler, who considers Stanford "a sleeper team," better alert his Michigan Wolverines to be wide awake for a possible upset Saturday.

The Cardinals are as likely a candidate as any to bounce Michigan from its newly acquired perch atop the national Associated Press college football rankings.

The reason?

Last year Stanford, behind quarterback Mike Cordova's 290 passing yards, "upset" Michigan by tying the Wolverines, 19-19.

Cordova is back and the Maize and Blue pass defense — which gave up 268 yards in the 40-27 triumph over Wisconsin last week — doesn't appear to have improved.

Michigan Stadium's second straight 101,000 crowd is expected for this, the first of three non-league games on the Michigan schedule.

Gary Cavalli, Stanford sports information director, said Coach Jack Christiansen "feels it's time for a REAL victory instead of a MORAL victory."

"I think it might be a high-scoring game," he said.

Schembechler, whose team climbed from No. 2 in the preseason poll to No. 1 this week, figures Stanford has a good chance to represent the Pacific Eight Conference in the Rose Bowl. He said the Cardinals have a better team this year than when they upset the Wolverines 13-12 in the 1972 Rose Bowl game.

Schembechler called Cordova "a passer — a REAL passer.... You and I know they're gonna get 200-300 yards passing Saturday."

"...They've got excellent defense," he added. "We'll have to earn what we get."

We've gotta work for first downs. We're not gonna get 56-yard plays."

Michigan's third play from scrimmage against Wisconsin was a 56-yard touchdown run by sophomore tailback Harlan Huckleby.

Stanford lost to Penn State last week, 15-12, falling behind 15-0 in the first quarter after losing three fumbles.

Three-year letter winner Tony Hill, one of the finest ends in the country, is back at wide receiver for Stanford — unless a sprained ankle keeps him on the bench. He caught eight passes for 126 yards against Michigan in 1975.

The Wolverines have their own star receiver in wingback Jim Smith. He caught five Rick Leach passes for 143 yards against Stanford.

Leach, a sophomore, appears much improved. Michigan's key defensive players include linebacker Calvin O'Neal and tackle Bo Morton, while the Cardinals' top defensive player is end Duncan McCall.

The matchup was originally scheduled for Palo Alto, Calif., but only 53,000 showed up when the teams met there a couple years ago and Cardinals officials felt it would be more profitable to play at Ann Arbor a second consecutive year.

Stanford also played last year's opener at Penn State. Instead of returning to the West Coast, the Cardinals practiced at Baldwin-Wallace College near Cleveland, Ohio. This year they decided it would be better to fly home and return for the Michigan game.

"It's hard to spend a week in Cleveland, isn't it?" Schembechler said.

Comets Get Golf Marks

Coloma set a pair of school records Thursday in posting a 154-172 golf victory over Lake Michigan Catholic at Lake Michigan Golf Hills.

Keith Penoyar carded a school record 34 (two-under-par) in sparking the Comets. The team score was also a new school mark.

Rick Friedman added a 37, Tim Kobetz a 40 and Dan Robinson a 41 for Coloma. Mike Tackus added a 38, Jay Franklin and Ken Merfeld finished with 44s and John Korff had a 46 for the Lakers.

Coloma also won the junior varsity match 202-208.

Jackson Back For Saturday

Wyoming Worries Rogers

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Fullback Levi Jackson, the bulwark of Michigan State's offense, has recovered from a shoulder injury and should start in Saturday's game against Wyoming, Coach Darryl Rogers said Thursday.

Rogers said he still does not know who will start at quarterback, and won't decide until just before game time.

The injury-riddled and probation-laden Spartans entertain the Cowboys after a 49-21 loss to Ohio State.

Last Saturday, Wyoming crushed South Dakota, 48-7.

The scores alone hint that the first meeting between the two schools may not be the one-sided affair it once would have been.

Wyoming has lost three games to Big Ten teams before, and looks to the MSU contest for an indication of how far coach Fred Akers' rebuilding program has come.

South Dakota, with only 40 players, hardly gave the Cowboys a true test.

Rogers is particularly worried about the wishbone offense Wyoming used against South Dakota. Even without their two best rushers, the Cowboys rolled up 339 yards on the ground.

At least one of them, senior halfback Robbie Wright, is expected to be healthy enough to be in Spartan Stadium for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff. Sophomore Latriel Jones is uncertain for the contest.

But the key to the Cowboy attack is sophomore quarterback Don Clayton, who didn't start until midway through last season and later suffered a rib injury. He only passed five times against South Dakota — but completed three for 63 yards, all for touchdowns. He also runs the triple option play well.

The Cowboys were only 2-9 last year, but have eight starters back and show marked improvement on defense.

The Spartans, meanwhile, head toward the game without knowing who their signal caller will be. Junior Ed Smith — on probation for the Ohio State game — was supposed to take over, but senior Marshall Lawson's performance in the second half and his 14-of-32 passing statistics made Rogers hesitate at replacing him.

Workmanlike but unspectacular Rich Baes is the tailback.

Three other Spartans are returning along with Smith from a one-game suspension. They are starting defensive tackle Larry Bethea, and middle guard Melvin Land and linebacker Jim Epolito, both reserves.

Saturday will be Band Day at Spartan Stadium, with 4,000 musicians marching at half-time.

Anderson Will Be No. 1 Sunday

Matched Against Colt Star Bert Jones

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometime Sunday, probably in the second period of Cincinnati's game at Baltimore, Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson will drop back, look over the defense and throw a pass.

And with that aerial, his ninth of the game, he will reach 1,500 pass attempts for his National Football League career. The significance of that particular pass is that the 1,500 plateau will qualify Anderson for the all-time passer rankings.

Anderson's 85.8 rating will put him in first place, ahead of the current leader, Sonny Jurgensen, who completed 15 of 23 for 221 yards against New Orleans.

The NFL's leading rusher will be in action in Buffalo where the Oilers meet the Bills. But it's not O.J. Simpson. He managed 28 yards in five carries against Miami after returning to the Bills on the eve of the season's opener. The first week's rushing leader was Houston's Ronnie Coleman, who had 142 yards against Tampa Bay. He will try the rebuilt Bills this week.

Conference passers after the first week's games were the Cleveland duo of Mike Phipps and Brian Sipe, who combined for 18-for-25 and 183 yards against the Jets.

In the NFC, the first week's passing leader was Minnesota's Tartakenton, who completed 15 of 23 for 221 yards against New Orleans. He could have a tougher time this week against Los Angeles. The Rams are down to their third-string quarterback, Pat Haden, with Ron Jaworski and James Harris both injured.

Comeback Is Eyed By Rotund Rascal

BY MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Fearless Forecaster
It only took one week, gracious friends, for Hoople to get in dutch with nearly everyone.

From my wife all the way down to my bookie, people are still degrading me for my predictions of last week. But how was I to know the real Nebraska team was hijacked by a band of hostile cajuns as it crossed into Louisiana.

Or can I help it if coach John Robinson, who may be the first coach to be fired after just one game at USC, is trying to prove that the Trojans are very beatable, even with Ricky Bell. But as Rick Forzano of the Detroit Lions always says, "Let's look on the bright side...the plane didn't crash."

But the old major has been in worse situations than this before. I remember back in 1947 when we had the Great Kerosene Flood in Surgoinsville, Tenn.

Why it just about wiped out the entire crop of moonshine. Lefty and I had been making for almost two years. That 200-gallon supply would have been enough to last us through at least the Army-Navy and Ohio State-Indiana games, along with the first half of the Western Michigan-Minnesota clash.

But the rotund rascal is looking for a major rebound after last week's upsets (and boy was I upset).

Michigan has a tough one against Stanford Saturday. And if any Wolverine fans don't remember, the Cardinals tied Michigan last season 19-19. But Hoople picks the Wolverines to triumph, even though Bo doesn't like his defense.

And don't fret faithful Green and White fans (both of you). Under the threat of having to watch the entire Seattle Seahawks-Tampa Bay Buccaneers game if I miss, Hoople is going to pick the Spartans to beat Wyoming and thus keep Darryl Rogers' job secure for at least one more week.

Speaking of secure things...on with the forecasts!

Hoople started off the season on shaky ground, hitting on just 23 of 37 picks for 62 per cent. This week he promises to do better, but don't bet the farm on it.

Fennville also won the junior varsity preliminary 25-20.

BROOKS ROBINSON

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson's long, illustrious tenure with the Baltimore Orioles may be over at the close of the 1976 season, but he is not yet ready to end his baseball career.

Even if he is through, however, the 39-year-old third baseman will walk away without regrets...and with his usual style and grace.

"It won't be a traumatic thing," Robinson said Thursday before leaving on a road trip. "Even if it's all over, I figure I've already beat the law of averages by a few years."

Robinson is convinced he still can play regularly and he is almost certain the Orioles won't protect him when Seattle and Toronto begin stocking their new franchises in the American League's expansion draft.

"I think I can play, and I'd like to find out if I can," he said. "If I can't, I'll go away happy and still in the prime of life."

Robinson, a brilliant fielder who says he never was paid for his defensive skills, has played in 2,866 games with the Orioles over the past 22 seasons.

Prior to this season, the durable Robinson had played in 97 per cent of Baltimore's games since being recalled from the minor leagues for the last time in 1959. He ranks fifth on the all-time list of games played in the majors.

The current season has been a frustrating one for Robinson. He has appeared in only 65 games and has played infrequently after being replaced by Doug DeCinces for the first time on May 17 — the day before his 39th birthday. "Being benched was no big deal," Robinson recalled. "I knew the ground rules before the season started. I knew if the team wasn't hitting or winning after four or five weeks, and I wasn't hitting, that a change might have to be made."

Manager Earl Weaver finally made the move on May 17, and Robinson's only extended period of action since then was between June 19 and July 6.

After Robinson hit only 201 last year, a drop of 87 points from 1974 and 68 points below his career average, Weaver discussed his 1976 plans for the Baltimore veteran in spring training.

Robinson's current average is .215, but he remains encouraged by his .301 mark in 83 times at bat since making some changes in his batting stance in mid-June.

With 41 hits this season, Robinson now has 2,836 for his career, but he insists that reaching the 3,000-hit plateau never has been a factor in wanting to continue playing.

Robinson said he also would be receptive to a player-coach position, and eventually a front office job. Anything, he said, except managing.

"I guess everything will unfold in the next six weeks or so," he said. "It's been great in Baltimore, but I don't expect to be back."

Jones completed 17 of 23 passes for 190 yards against the Broncos and Anderson hit 17 of 25 for 147 yards against the Patriots. The leading American BUCHANAN — Patience Vanderbush pumped in 25 points and Lynn Bobo added 13 Thursday night as Buchanan's girls basketball team topped Niles 61-38 here.

The win was the second in three days for the Bucks and upped their season record to 3-0 heading into Tuesday's showdown against River Valley.

Buchanan had edged by Berrien Springs 34-28 Tuesday with Vanderbush scoring 14. Diana Umfress had 12 for the losers.

Oakland plays at Kansas City Monday night.
Anderson, in his sixth NFL season, recognizes his own limitations.
"Each NFL quarterback has his own attributes," he said. "I don't do things the way Fran Tarkenton does. I can't throw as hard as Terry Bradshaw. I don't set up as quickly as Joe Namath and don't have as quick a release. But I know what I can do with my physical ability and I have to get the job done the way I can. I like to think I'm a consistent quarterback."
Anderson is considered one of the NFL's best young passers and he will face another Sunday in Baltimore's Bert Jones. Both rallied their teams with passes for first-game victories, the Bengals beating Denver 17-7 and Baltimore downing New England 27-13.
Jones completed 17 of 23 passes for 190 yards against the Broncos and Anderson hit 17 of 25 for 147 yards against the Patriots. The leading American

Robinson Is Not Ready To End Career

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson's long, illustrious tenure with the Baltimore Orioles may be over at the close of the 1976 season, but he is not yet ready to end his baseball career.
Even if he is through, however, the 39-year-old third baseman will walk away without regrets ... and with his usual style and grace.
"It won't be a traumatic thing," Robinson said Thursday before leaving on a road trip. "Even if it's all over, I figure I've already beat the law of averages by a few years."
Robinson is convinced he still can play regularly and he is almost certain the Orioles won't protect him when Seattle and Toronto begin stocking their new franchises in the American League's expansion draft.
"I think I can play, and I'd like to find out if I can," he said. "If I can't, I'll go away happy and still in the prime of life."
Robinson, a brilliant fielder who says he never was paid for his defensive skills, has played in 2,866 games with the Orioles over the past 22 seasons.
Prior to this season, the durable Robinson had played in 97 per cent of Baltimore's games since being recalled from the minor leagues for the last time in 1959. He ranks fifth on the all-time list of games played in the majors.
The current season has been a frustrating one for Robinson. He has appeared in only 65 games and has played infrequently after being replaced by Doug DeCinces for the first time on May 17 — the day before his 39th birthday. "Being benched was no big deal," Robinson recalled. "I knew the ground rules before the season started. I knew if the team wasn't hitting or winning after four or five weeks, and I wasn't hitting, that a change might have to be made."
Manager Earl Weaver finally made the move on May 17, and Robinson's only extended period of action since then was between June 19 and July 6.
After Robinson hit only .201 last year, a drop of 87 points from 1974 and 68 points below his career average, Weaver discussed his 1976 plans for the Baltimore veteran in spring training.
Robinson's current average is .215, but he remains encouraged by his .301 mark in 83 times at bat since making some changes in his batting stance in mid-June.
With 41 hits this season, Robinson now has 2,836 for his career, but he insists that reaching the 3,000-hit plateau never has been a factor in wanting to continue playing.

Wells Is Aiming For 700 Series

Excellent Season Start Includes 682 Series

By AL AREND
Staff Writer

Must beggers would be happy to bowl a 600 series, but for Chuck Wells of Benton Harbor, 700 is the magic number.

Wells, who has been laid off from Clark Equipment Co. for the past year, has started off this season with a bang, rolling series of 663, 626 and 682 the past two weeks. His 682 consisted of games of 245, 225 and 212.

His 682 Tuesday at Blossom Lanes is the best of his career in 10 years of bowling, but Wells continues to set his sights on that elusive 700.

"Like most bowlers starting out you work for that 600," Wells says, "but now I want that 700 series." Wells said he has rolled numerous 600 series.

Wells, who bowls four times a week at Blossom Lanes, says he averaged 134 last year. Since being out of work, he says he's had more time to work on his game and hopefully it will help him get that 700 series.

With the season well underway, Gene Oman of Union Pier just missed that magic 700, hitting 688 at Blossom Lanes this week. Oman, bowling for Mr. K's of Niles, tossed games of 278-233-189.

Oman, 46, who rolled a 759 series (including a 300 game) at Gersonde's in 1971, says he has tossed "six or eight" 700's before, "but it's still a thrill to get that magic number." His 688 is tops in the area so far this year.

A father and son combination, Cecil and Carl Matlock of Benton Harbor, threw high individual games this week. Cecil tossed a 264 at Gersonde's and son Carl a 258 at Blossom Lanes. Keith Kolberg, St. Joseph, has the top game so far with a 273 at Blossom Lanes that included 111 strikes in a row. He finished with a 618 series.

On the women's side of the ledger, Betty Forray of Stevensville tossed a 592 series Wednesday night at Lakeshore Lanes for an early lead. Mary Ann Briney, St. Joseph, rolled a 240 game at Gersonde's last night, tops thus far.

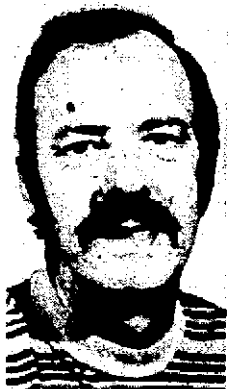

Cindy Mitchell of Fairplain rolled a 231 game, 110 pins over her average, at Blossom Lanes Tuesday night to tie for second. Ruth Pribe and Carol Sender have also tossed 231's.

—Bob Johnson threw a "Dutch" 200 game at Blossom Lanes Monday night in the Junior Classic league and Virginia Van Delike had an all spare game (182) at Coloma Recreation.

—Don Butler and Wanda Rogers had triplicate games of 136 and 116, respectively.

—Winter registration for youth bowlers at Wil-O-Paw Lanes, Coloma, will be Saturday, Sept. 18 from 9 a.m. to noon. A filmstrip "How to Bowl" and instruction will be held from 11 a.m. to noon.

Registration fee is $1.50 per person. League bowling will start Saturday, Sept. 25. Interested youth can contact Mrs. Timothy (Sheryl) Cuthbert, Coloma, for more information.

Flint Southwestern Cream Of Crop In 'A'

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Namath says Flint Southwestern High School will be the cream of the crop in Michigan's Class A football ranks this season, but a man who knows better, the team's coach, Dar Christensen, says "Let's wait and see."

Namath, better known for throwing football and parties in New York City, is associate publisher of a new national high school sports magazine which in its first issue ranked the Flint squad No. 12 in the country.

Since no other Michigan team was mentioned in the magazine's poll, it means that according to Namath, and his editors, the Colts are No. 1 in the state.

Christensen, beginning his sixth season as Southwestern coach, is hesitant to go that far in ranking his charges but admits, "We could have an excellent team."

One player alone, senior tailback Booker Moore, will give the Flint school an edge over any rival it will face, Moore, a 6-1, 180-pound All Stater, could be the finest prep runner ever to perform in a city which also produced the likes of Lynn Chandnois, Leroy Bolden, Elis Duckett, Clarence Peaks and William Broadway.

As a junior, Moore topped all of the other Flint greats with a city rushing record of 1,240 yards. He averaged 7.4 yards per carry and led Flint in scoring with 15 TD's and four conversion runs for 98 points.

Should Southwestern slip this year, there are several talented teams capable of winning the ratings war. One of these is Ypsilanti which has been one of the state's finest teams in the last seven years.

The Braves of Coach Ralph Perriello are coming off a 6-3 season and expect bigger things from 28 returning lettermen including 13 starters.

Perriello figures junior quarterback Scott Davis, 5-9, 198 pounds, will develop into an outstanding collegiate prospect. Berch Gannon, 5-11, 195 pounds, will lead a good offensive line and if Ypsilanti, traditionally strong defenders will feature halfback Fred Williams.

On the west side of the state, it looks like the power is in Muskegon where both Muskegon and Muskegon Muna Shores are expecting big seasons.

Muskegon has regulars from a 5-4 team led by Andy Achterhoff, Steve Solasky, Mark Gable, John Brown and Jim Raymond. Mona Shores has regulars from its 1975 squad headed by powerful fullback Dave Windatt 6-1, 205 pounds, who is being touted as an All State candidate.

Lansing Eastern, which won its last six games with a young team last year could be that area's power.

The Detroit area should again be well represented in the polls.

Redford which has All-State End Fred Brockington returning could be the power in the Public School League. Others who look strong from that loop include Kettering which has a gifted runner in Stan Edwards, Southwestern and Cass Tech.

The Detroit Catholic League, dominated in recent seasons by Birmingham Brother Rice, and Class B Dearborn Divine Child, could have a surprise in Harper Woods Notre Dame.

Veteran coach Al Baumgart, noted for success at other Catholic schools, is in his third year at Notre Dame and may have the best team there.

East Detroit could be the power in the Eastern Michigan League with 20 returning lettermen, including a speedy split end, Jack Robart and running back Dave Dudek.

Port Huron Northern bears watching in the EML, too. It was 7-2 last year and has its two top runners returning, Ed Brennan and Steve Bringard.

Trenton, although losing much from last year's 8-0 squad which gained the AP's top spot in the final poll, should still be strong again.

Jack Castagnola, the Class A coach of the year for 1975, has six starters returning including running back Duncan Allen.

Livonia Franklin which won the state playoffs last year is expected to be down with only two starters back. Kalamazoo Central, which finished 9-4 and gained a semifinal berth in the playoffs, also was hurt by graduation and the power in that city has shifted to Loy Norrix.

Warren Mott may be the power in Macomb County. Pat Horton returns at quarterback where he set two school records last year by passing for 1,200 yards and 17 touchdowns. One of his favorite receivers, Dave Dukak, also is back.

Ferndale also will be strong. It has a good nucleus returning from a 7-2 team, including fullback Kevin Long who gained 891 yards.

Marquette, winner of 15 straight including two this year, again is the class of the Upper Peninsula. John McCormick, named back of the year in the UP last season, heads the Marquette cast.

Other teams that could have big seasons include Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Waterford Mott, Lake Orion, Farmington, Farmington Harrison, Pontiac Central, Livonia Churchill, Utica Eisenhower, Waterford, Bloomfield Hills Andover, Hazel Park Dearborn Fordson, Detroit Northern, Mount Clemens, Plymouth Salem, Dearborn Edsel Ford, Grosse Pointe North, St. Clair Shores Lakeshore, East Kentwood, Grand Rapids Union deserves consideration, too. Marquette, winner of 15 straight, including two this year, is again the class of the Upper Peninsula.

Career Clips

Former River Valley griddler Bob North, now Michigan Tech's backup quarterback, completed two of four passes for 27 yards and rushed for eight yards in three carries in the Huskies' victory over Northwood last Saturday.

Defensive end Craig Dudley and defensive back Rodney Atkinson, both of Benton Harbor, are listed on the Wyoming football roster. The Cowpokes play at Michigan State Saturday, but Dudley and Atkinson aren't listed on the two-deep pre-game depth charts.

Edwin Stubelt of St. Joseph is listed on the 1976 Western Michigan soccer roster. He is a freshman fullback.

Steve Smallbone of Dowagiac, a Central Michigan defensive tackle, had a fumble recovery, a blocked punt and eight tackles, including two for losses, in the Chips' 20-10 defeat at the hands of Kent State last Saturday.

Kari Miller of New Buffalo heads a list of five returning letterwinners to Western Michigan University's women's volleyball team. She is in her fourth year of varsity competition.

Local Soccer Clubs On Road

The St. Joseph Kickers and the Benton Harbor F.C. Dank are on the road Saturday in Western Michigan Soccer League action.

The Dank faces the Grand Haven Soccer Club while the Kickers go up against the Holland Hawks. Both contests start at 8 p.m.

Both teams opened their fall seasons last weekend with victories. The Kickers whipped the Wyoming De-Quicks 5-2 and the Dank toppled the Muskegon Olympics 4-1.

THREE OAKS — River Valley broke open a close game in the second half and went on to a

Mustangs Win Meet

River Valley used good team balance to capture a quadrangular cross country meet Thursday at Riverview Park.

The Mustangs placed four runners among the first 10 finishers in edging Benton Harbor, Lake Michigan Catholic and Lakeshore. River Valley finished with 40 points to nip the Tigers, who had 48. Catholic wound up with 64 and Lakeshore came in with 69.

Dave Rieth of River Valley was first in 16:05, nipping Tim Gentry of Lake Michigan Catholic. Gentry was clocked in 16:06.

Benton Harbor's Mike Parrish was third to head up the Tiger contingent. Steve Hudson was fifth and Nicky Blumner seventh for Benton Harbor.

River Valley took eighth, ninth and tenth place with Keith Hall, Steve Copeland and Dave Zebell, respectively.

Tigers Toppled

BATTLE CREEK — Kevin Beard carded an even-par 72 Thursday as Battle Creek Lakeview ripped the Benton Harbor golf team 305-382 at Binder Golf Course.

Alan Shull paced the Tigers with a 90, while Dave Dean posted a 92. Chuck Marschke and Jeff Williams each finished with 108s.

Laker Frosh Win

DOWAGIAC — Dan McQuillan scored two touchdowns and Glen Miller added one as Lake Michigan Catholic's freshmen football team beat Dowagiac 20-14 Thursday night here.

McQuillan scored on runs of six and 12 yards, while Miller crossed the goal line on a 15-yard scamper.

50-39 victory over St. Joseph in a girls basketball game here Thursday.

The Mustangs, now 2-0, led just 22-21 at halftime but pulled away in the second half.

Ruth Simmons had 16 and Linda Mitchell, Wendy Schwark and Debbie Lundin 10 apiece for the winners. Jill Ziebart tallied 11 and Ann Ryan eight for St. Joe.

St. Joseph did win the junior varsity game 34-17.

Hartford Nips Comet Harriers

Hartford harriers nipped Coloma yesterday afternoon 26-29 in a varsity cross country meet at Lake Michigan Hills golf course.

Hartford's Mark Manning toured the three-mile course in 17:47 placing first. Other Indian runners in the top 10 were Dennis Frazier, second; Mike Buchholz, fifth; and Joe Bunn, seventh.

The Comets placed six runners in the top 10 including Randy Harris, third; Don Umphrey, fourth; Steve Hardman, sixth; Jim Ridge, eighth; Bruce Vandervort, ninth; and Brian Dilts, tenth.

OATS COVER CROP: Scottdale grower Felix Dongvillo planted a winter cover crop of oats in his newly-planted vineyard shown here both as a means of soil conservation and to help take moisture from the soil, which he said will help to harden the vine stems of the french hybrid grapes he is growing for the first time. Dongvillo said he used to plant rye but found out that oats also does an effective job and does not have to be cut in the Spring. (Staff photo)

The Fight Against Spring Erosion Should Start Now

By JOHN FENNELL
Staff Writer

If they haven't done so already, farmers and growers should be thinking of planting some type of winter cover crop to protect soil from wind and water erosion, according to the Soil Conservation Service.

Last Spring in Berrien county and the surrounding area much valuable top soil was lost due to heavy winds and water runoff, according to Roger Howell, district conservationist.

To protect the land, the conservation office recommends that any soil that is going to be completely exposed throughout the fall, winter and early spring should be covered with a winter crop.

Fields most susceptible to wind erosion are those in which row crops such as tomatoes, peppers, cantaloupe and newly planted strawberries are grown. The soil is usually left exposed and becomes victim to wind erosion, Howell said.

Most of the organic matter, soil microbes, available plant nutrients, and soil aeration are located in this topsoil layer and are vulnerable to blowing, according to Russell G. Hill, extension service specialist in soil and water conservation.

To prevent wind erosion, both the extension and conservation services recommended that rye, ryegrass, oats, buckwheat or barley be used as cover crops. Oats and rye are most commonly used in this area.

Oats will winterkill but remain in the spring to protect the surface. Rye, on the other hand, grows again in the spring and remains as a strong cover crop when winds are strong.

of rye are fallseeded at intervals across the field.

Although the soil in which vineyards are planted does not usually suffer much wind damage, it is very susceptible to water erosion — especially when located on hilly ground, according to Howell.

The conservation and extension services both said that planting either oats or rye between vineyard rows, especially in newly-planted vineyards, will prevent soil runoff. When planted in late August, the practice also serves to cut grape growth and harden vine stems.

Besides being effective as a means of soil conservation, planting oats or rye puts valuable humus back into the soil, Howell said.

One disadvantage, however, in planting rye is that it must be either cut down or disked in the spring. Farmers say it is sometimes difficult to get machinery between vineyard rows. And if not done in time, the rye can rob the grapes of valuable moisture.

The extension service also said that in some cases planting a cover crop in vineyards may reduce some of the heat releasing power of uncovered ground at times of frost.

NEWS OF FARM, ORCHARD AND DAIRY

Remand Of Marketing Act Suit Doesn't Please Cannery Or MACMA

Some of the people involved in the lawsuit against the state Agricultural Marketing and Bargaining Act expected a more definite decision than they got from the Michigan Supreme court last month.

"It is frustrating to us that we've carried it this far and gotten an indecisive decision," said Sam Ebbert, president of the Michigan Cannery and Freezers association.

In 1974 the association filed suit in Ingham County Circuit court to challenge the constitutionality of the then-new Act. Instead of to trial, the case went here and there on appeal as the courts tried to decide whether the case should be heard in a trial or appeals court.

Two and one-half years later (last month) that decision was made by the supreme court; the case should be heard in Ingham County Circuit court.

The irony of the decision coupled with the fact that the cannery spent about $40,000 in legal fees to get it was "disheartening" to Ed Van Sickle, secretary of the Cannery and Freezers.

Noel Stuckman, general manager of the Michigan Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association (MACMA), views the supreme court's order to remand the case to the lower court as "a delay." He said that MACMA, which is a defendant in the case, has also spent about $40,000 in fees and is "certainly looking forward to getting it resolved."

But resolution of the case may be a long time coming.

Ebbert, who is general manager of the Jeno's, Inc., Soda plant, says the cannery "still feel that (the Act) is a bad piece of legislation" and he says they will take their fight to the Circuit court.

However, before the Circuit court case begins the supreme court will have to rule on motions presented last Friday by the cannery's attorney, Ernest Sharpe of Grand Rapids.

The lawyer wants a clarification of the 16-page Aug. 25 decision and permission to amend the suit. He guesses that the court will rule on his motions "in a couple of months."

Sharpe's two-month estimate may be optimistic. In January of 1975 the supreme court agreed to decide in which court the case should be heard and it invited the parties to discuss the constitutional issues, according to Supreme Court Reporter William H. Lewis. It was neither expected that 19 months would pass before the court made its decision nor that the court would ultimately fail to rule on the constitutional issues.

Lewis explained Wednesday that the justices "probably intended to decide the constitutional issues, but they're not bound to do it."

Instead, the court found that "plaintiff has raised important questions regarding the constitutionality and construction of the (Act) without developing a factual record at trial which would help provide a context in which to consider these questions. To resolve these significant issues in such a factual vacuum would be imprudent," the justices said.

The court also asked both parties to raise certain questions in the Circuit court case and apparently stated that any appeal of the Circuit judge's ruling would bypass the Michigan Court of Appeals and go directly to the supreme court.

Recognizing that it will probably see the case again, the supreme court wants, in the Circuit court trial record, answers to some of these questions:

"What are the conditions in the farming and food processing industry which led to the enactment of the Act? Is there an imbalance in the bargaining power of the growers and the handlers? If so, what are the consequences of that imbalance?"

Stuckman observed that these are the same questions that were asked in the state legislature before it passed the Act in 1972.

MACMA is represented by a private attorney but the other defendant in the suit, the Agricultural Marketing and Bargaining board, is represented by the state attorney general's office.

Harry Iwasko, the assistant attorney general overseeing the case, said "a tremendous amount of time has been burned up on this case." Disagreeing with Ebbert, who thinks the supreme court dodged the issues in the case, Iwasko said the court "faced up to the fact that there weren't any facts" on which to base a ruling.

Interestingly, the opposing attorneys both said they won a technical battle in the recent Michigan Supreme court decision. Sharpe points out that the court ruled that he'd filed the suit in the right place after all. Iwasko remarks that the court followed his argument and remanded the case for trial rather than deciding the constitutional issue.

Tart Cherry Final Returns Released

Michigan tart-cherry processors received 84.9 million pounds of cherries from Michigan growers in 1976, up slightly from the June 15 estimate of 83.5 million total production, according to a recent Market News service report.

In 1975 processors received 179.8 million pounds from Michigan growers, according to Cherry Administrative Board figures. The report said the Great Lake states sold 112.9 million pounds to processors as compared to 208.8 million pounds for last year.

Of this year's total, processors received 4.3 million pounds of cherries from Michigan's southwestern counties, including Berrien, Van Buren and Cass, which were hardest hit by spring frosts that substantially reduced the crop figures in both the Midwest and the Eastern states. It was estimated that the Southwestern counties would produce 7.5 million pounds this year.

Growers in Northwestern Michigan produced 58.9 million pounds of cherries that were sold to processors, while counties in West Central Michigan produced 21.6 million pounds, according to the Market News report.

Of the total figure for the Great Lake states, New York ranked next to Michigan, producing 23.5 million pounds for processing, followed by Pennsylvania and Ohio with a combined total of 10.2 million pounds and Wisconsin with 9.1 million pounds.

Eight Juice Processors Accept Price

Seven juice processors have agreed to a Michigan apple marketers asking price of $4 per hundred pounds on juice apples, according to Thomas Butler, manager of the Michigan Apple Processing Apple Growers.

Those companies agreeing to the price are M. Steffen Co., Eastman, Jeno's Inc., Sodas; Eau Claire Packing Co., Eau Claire; Indian Summer, Belding; Spinks Corners Juice Co., Spinks Corner; Fenton Brothers, Mears; and Speas Co., Fremont.

Silver Mills Frozen Foods Co. and Jeno's Inc. have also joined five other processors in agreeing to pay asking prices per hundredweight of $10 for Northern Spys, $8.75 for "preferred" slicing varieties and $8 for sauce apples, Butler said.

The asking prices this year are in some cases triple last fall's because of the expected short crop.

CAB Sends Dividend Checks

Some 2,000 growers in an eight-state area will receive dividend checks from the Cherry Administrative Board from investments made from the sale of the cherry pool earlier this year.

According to CAB general manager Del Rasmussen, $74,721 will be distributed to 2,036 growers in Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Ohio early next week. CAB invested several million dollars in short term notes from money received over a 45-day period from the sale of the pool. As the money was received from processors it was invested, Rasmussen said.

USDA Buying 279,000 Cases Of Michigan Plums

The United States Department of Agriculture has purchased more than 279,000 cases of canned purple plums for use in school lunch and senior citizens' programs from six Michigan processors at an average asking price of $6.93 a case.

The Michigan processors are Cherry Central Cooperative, 61,600 cases; Elk Rapids Packing Co., Elk Rapids, 26,400 cases; Frigid Foods, Detroit, 35,200 cases; Honey Bear, Lawton, 44,000 cases; Traverse City Canning Co., Traverse City, 92,400 cases and Triple D

Orchards, 19,800, according to Harry Foster, Plum Growers Marketing Committee secretary.

Truitt Bros. in Oregon and N.W. Packing Co. in Washington were also recipients of awards.

SHOULD BREAD COST MORE?

If the price of bread had increased during the past few years proportionately as much as fuel or fertilizer — two basic raw materials for the farmer — a loaf would cost from $1.37 to $1.68 today.

NO MORE PLOWBOYS?

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Some soil experts feel plowing is unnecessary and wasteful and expect to prove it. In one test, researchers at the University of Nebraska School of Agriculture, with a grant from Phillips Petroleum company, start work this fall on an experimental system in which everything from planting to harvesting will be done without tilling the soil.

OVER CROP: Scottdale grower Felix Dongvillo planted a winter cover crop in his newly-planted vineyard shown here both as a means of soil erosion and to help take moisture from the soil, which he said will help to the vine stems of the french hybrid grapes he is growing for the first time. Dongvillo said he used to plant rye but found out that oats also does an excellent job and does not have to be cut in the Spring. (Staff photo)

the fall, winter and early spring should be covered with a winter crop.

Fields most susceptible to wind erosion are those in which row crops such as tomatoes, peppers, cantaloupe and newly planted strawberries are grown. The soil is usually left exposed and becomes victim to wind erosion, Howell said.

Most of the organic matter, soil microbes, available plant nutrients, and soil aeration are located in this topsoil layer and are vulnerable to blowing, according to Russell G. Hill, extension service specialist in soil and water conservation.

To prevent wind erosion, both the extension and conservation services recommended that rye, ryegrass, oats, buckwheat or barley be used as cover crops. Oats and rye are most commonly used in this area.

Oats will winterkill but remain in the spring to protect the surface. Rye, on the other hand, grows again in the spring and remains as a strong cover crop when winds are strong.

NO MORE PLOWBOYS?
LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Some soil experts feel plowing is unnecessary and wasteful and expect to prove it. In one test, researchers at the University of Nebraska School of Agriculture, with a grant from Phillips Petroleum company, start work this fall on an experimental system in which everything from planting to harvesting will be done without tilling the soil.

NEWS OF FARM, ORCHARD AND DAIRY

Remand Of Marketing Act Suit Doesn't Please Cannery Or MACMA

Some of the people involved in the lawsuit against the state Agricultural Marketing and Bargaining Act expected a more definite decision than they got from the Michigan Supreme court last month.

"It is frustrating to us that we've carried it this far and gotten an indecisive decision," said Sam Ebbert, president of the Michigan Cannery and Freezers association.

In 1974 the association filed suit in Ingham County Circuit court to challenge the constitutionality of the then-new Act. Instead of trial, the case went here and there on appeal as the courts tried to decide whether the case should be heard in a trial or appeals court.

Two and one-half years later (last month) that decision was made by the supreme court: the case should be heard in Ingham County Circuit court.

The irony of the decision coupled with the fact that the cannery spent about $40,000 in legal fees to get it was "disheartening" to Ed Van Sickle, secretary of the Cannery and Freezers.

Noel Stuckman, general manager of the Michigan Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association (MACMA), views the supreme court's order to remand the case to the lower court as "a delay." He said that MACMA, which is a defendant in the case, has also spent about $40,000 in fees and is "certainly looking forward to getting it resolved."

But resolution of the case may be a long time coming.

Ebbert, who is general manager of the Jeno's, Inc., Sodas plant, says the cannery "still feel that (the Act) is a bad piece of legislation" and he says they will take their fight to the Circuit court.

However, before the Circuit court case begins the supreme court will have to rule on motions presented last Friday by the cannery's attorney, Ernest Sharpe of Grand Rapids.

The lawyer wants a clarification of the 16-page Aug. 25 decision and permission to amend the suit. He guesses that the court will rule on his motions "in a couple of months."

Sharpe's two-month estimate may be optimistic. In January of 1975 the supreme court agreed to decide in which court the case should be heard and it invited the parties to discuss the constitutional issues, according to Supreme Court Reporter William H. Lewis. It was neither expected that 19 months would pass before the court made its decision nor that the court would ultimately fail to rule on the constitutional issues.

Instead, the court found that "plaintiff has raised important questions regarding the constitutionality and construction of the (Act) without developing a factual record at trial which would help provide a context in which to consider these questions. To resolve these significant issues in such a factual vacuum would be imprudent," the justices said.

The court also asked both parties to raise certain questions in the Circuit court case and apparently stated that any appeal of the Circuit judge's ruling would bypass the Michigan Court of Appeals and go directly to the supreme court.

Recognizing that it will probably see the case again, the supreme court wants, in the Circuit court trial record, answers to some of these questions:

"What are the conditions in the farming and food processing industry which led to the enactment of the Act? Is there an imbalance in the bargaining power of the growers and handlers? If so, what are consequences of that balance?"

Stuckman observed that are the same questions were asked in the state legislature before it passed the 1972.

MACMA is represented private attorney but the defendant in the suit Agricultural Marketing Bargaining board, is represented by the state attorney general's office.

Harry Iwasko, the attorney general overseer case, said "a tremendous amount of time has been built up on this case." Disagreement with Ebbert, who thinks supreme court dodged the issues in the case, Iwasko said court "faced up to the facts there weren't any facts which to base a ruling."

Interestingly, the opposing attorneys both said they're technical battle in the Michigan Supreme decision. Sharpe points out the court ruled that he'd the suit in the right place all. Iwasko remarks the court followed his argument remanded the case for rather than deciding the constitutional issue.

Tart Cherry Final Returns Released

Michigan tart cherry processors received 84.9 million pounds of cherries from Michigan growers in 1976, up slightly from the June 15 estimate of 83.5 million total production, according to a recent Market News service report.

In 1975 processors received 179.8 million pounds from Michigan growers, according to Cherry Administrative Board figures. The report said the Great Lake states sold 112.9 million pounds to processors as compared to 208.8 million pounds for last year.

Of this year's total, processors received 4.3 million pounds of cherries from Michigan's southwestern counties, including Berrien, Van Buren and Cass, which were hardest hit by spring frosts that substantially reduced the crop figures in both the Midwest and the Eastern states. It was estimated that the Southwestern counties would produce 7.5 million pounds this year.

Growers in Northwestern Michigan produced 59.9 million pounds of cherries that were sold to processors, while counties in West Central Michigan produced 21.6 million pounds, according to the Market News report.

Of the total figure for the Great Lake states, New York ranked next to Michigan, producing 23.5 million pounds for processing, followed by Pennsylvania and Ohio with a combined total of 10.2 million pounds and Wisconsin with 9.1 million pounds.

Milking Parlor Tour Sept. 22

An open house of an ultra-modern milking facility will be held on the John Ybema farm, 2846 16th street, Hopkins, from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sept. 22.

A Double-8 California-type parlor with 16 units that are cleaned in place and 16 automatic take-off units, plus an EPA-DNR approved wastewater lagoon will be featured.

High Schools In Panama Closed

PANAMA CITY (AP) — The government has closed all high schools until Monday in the wake of a student demonstration in defiance of a government ban.

Antiriot squads from the National Guard, Panama's army, welded rubber truncheons Wednesday night to disperse student demonstrators at the National Institute, a high school that is considered a stronghold of opposition to the government of Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos.

Most previous student demonstrations have been against the U.S. occupation of the Panama Canal Zone and have had the support of the government. But Torrijos banned all demonstrations after several thousand students took to the streets last Friday to protest increases in the prices of milk and rice and to commemorate the anniversary of the slaying of Chile's Marxist President Salvador Allende in a military coup three years ago.

CLASSES CLOSED

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — The University of Puerto Rico has suspended classes for the 26,000 students at the Rio Piedras campus in San Juan because students decided to support a strike by maintenance and clerical workers. University officials said 25 students were suspended.

In Memoriam 3

IN LOVING MEMORY of George Joseph Pihluc who passed away on September 17, 1955.

In Memory of our Son & Brother - RICHARD C. BAGINSKE. Birthday Sept. 17th.

We cannot think of him as dead. Who walk with us no more along the path of life we tread. He has but gone before. The Fathers House is mansioned fair. Beyond are visions dim. All souls are his and here or there, are living into him. And still there silent ministry within our hearts holds place, as when on earth he walked with us, and met us face to face. Ours are his by lineage, not by deed, and death can free, for God hath given to love and to keep, its own eternity.
Mom & Dad Frederick & Edward

TREASURED MEMORIES - Of our dearly loved son & brother Vern D. Strubbe. Sept. 17th, 1969.
It is not the tears of the moment shed that tell of a loved one that is broken.
It is the tears in the quiet years when a loved one's name is spoken.
Mom & Dad & Brothers & Sister.

GRACE HANNER

In memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother who passed away 1 year ago today.

Loving and kind in all her ways.
Upright and just, to the end of her days.
Sincere and true, in her heart and mind.
Beautiful memories she left behind.
